Superior.—(P)—Sixty prohibition agents raided 30 places simultaneously here late yesterday, arrested 35 persons and destroyed large quantities of alleged beer, wine, moonshine whiskey and mash.

M. T. Harney, prohibition administrator for the Chicago area, R. G. Ford, St. Paul area administrator, and Ray J. Nye, Madison, Wis., administrator for the Western Wisconsin district, directed the raids. The agents were gathered from headquarters at St. Paul, Madison and Milwaukee.

Those taken in custody including eight women, were taken before Federal Court Commissioner Charles W. Bishop for arraignment. Those unable to furnish bonds were placed in the county jail. Bond in most cases was fixed at $1,000.

The agents, working in pairs entered the establishments along Third and Toler streets at 6 o'clock. They carried search warrants obtained on evidence gathered during the last month by undercover agents.

The raid apparently was unexpected, but places in other parts of the city began closing a few minutes later. Two years ago this month 57 persons were arrested in a similar wholesale raid on 40 places here.

Those arrested last night were: Frank Nevins, William Byrnes, Oscar Ahlgren, Walker Weiss, Ruth Trombly, Elmer Bergbergh, Jennie Johnson, Clarence Freeland, Art Spooner, Emil Kovokich, Millie Okash, Michael Baich, Sam Lury, Bertha Peterson, Gilbert Peterson, Lucille Kelly, Andrew Penger, Matt Pelarski, Henry Baich, James E. Call, Francis Walsh, H. Warden, Violet McKie, H. M. Malchow, William Murray, Edward W. Cosgrave Facing Arrest, ReportMay be Tried for His Attacks on De Valera Government

Dublin, Irish Free State.—(P)—A possibility that former President William T. Cosgrave of the Irish Free State may be arrested and tried for his platform attacks on the De Valera government, was predicted today by Cosgrave's supporters.

A speech which he made recently in Galway especially angered the government, these sources said, and led President De Valera's newspaper, the Irish Press, to warn the former president if he repeats the charges he may be tried before a military tribunal.

The military tribunal mentioned was set up by Cosgrave himself while he was head of the government, to try cases of sedition under the National Safety act. The practice was suspended by the De Valera government when it came into power, but the legislation setting up the court has not been repealed and presumably it could be made operative again.

Cosgrave, commenting on the editorial, said he would repeat the charges in question in order to give the government an opportunity to carry out its threat to arrest him. He predicted, however, that De Valera would not have the courage to take such a step.

GROCERY MANAGER SLAIN

$35,000 Taken
In Minnesota
Bank RobberyRedwood Falls Cashier and Secretary Seized as Shields in Flight

FLEE IN IOWA CAR

Captives Released by Five
Bandits Two Miles
From City

Redwood Falls, Minn.—(P)—Bandits raided a bank of this community today, took $35,000 in cash, kidnaped the cashier and his secretary, and fled in an automobile, bearing Iowa license plates.

Without firing a shot, gunmen snapped through the robbery as if it were so much routine and when two miles out released unharmed their captives, who served as shields as the bandit car raced out of town.

The entire band of five swept into the State Bank and Trust company, clad in new overalls.

They menaced five members of the bank staff with pistols, herded them from behind tellers' cages and forced them on the floor face downward and then raked money into sacks.

Then they hurried out through a rear door taking A. F. Hasselstad, cashier and Miss Mona Leavens, his secretary, with them.

Miss Leavens was forced to stand on one running board beside the driver and Hasselstad on the other.

"The driver held onto me with his left hand and drove with the other," Miss Leavens said. "He used profane language several times and told me to be sure and look the other way if I didn't want to get my head broken."

Hasselstad said a weapon he believed was a sawed-off shotgun was pressed against his stomach. Two miles out the car stopped and the two were forced out.

The loot was the second largest for bank robbery in Minnesota this year. In March, a Minneapolis bank yielded $200,000.

Says War Department
Tries to Hush Charges

New York.—(P)—A statement charging the war department with an effort to hush up accusations that Negro workers on the Mississippi flood control project "were treated like peons and slaves" was issued today by Walter White, secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, on his return from Washington, D. C.

White, who accompanied the association's investigator, Miss Helen Boardman, when she testified yesterday before Brigadier-General Pillsbury, sharply scored exclusion of the press from the hearing and the tenor of Gen. Pillsbury's questions.

"It was plain that the war department in closing the hearing to the press tried to keep from the American people news of the horrors now going on in Mississippi," said White.

Life Sentence Urged
For Montana Slayer

Shelby, Mont.—(P)—Life imprisonment was recommended by a jury which last night convicted Frank J. Nevills, former town treasurer of Sweet Grass, of the murder of A. J. Hedrick, Sweet Grass newspaper editor, Hedrick was slain last May 19.

Nevills pleaded self-defense. He told the jury the editor threatened him with a slug bat from a type-setting machine when he went to the plant to tell Hedrick, who succeeded him as town treasurer, about the leaking hydrant he wanted the city council to have fixed.

The defendant said he did not know what happened when Hedrick ordered him from the place, but added "I must have shot him."

The jury reached its verdict on the first degree murder charge after five hours deliberation. Sentence will be pronounced Monday.

Negro Held in Murder
Of Mississippi Woman

Meridian, Miss.—(P)—The nude body of Miss Jerline McNeil, 40, was found under brush in a ditch near here today with knife wounds in her breast. Bloodhounds led officers to the home of a Negro known as Dudley Roberts.

They hurried him away to a secret jail after searching the house and finding bloody clothing and a sawed-off shotgun.

Miss McNeil left home late yesterday to search for lost cows. Her failure to return aroused neighbors and they searched for her all night.

Lita Grey Chaplin to Renew Court Battle

Los Angeles.—(P)—Lita Grey Chaplin, divorced wife of Charles Chaplin, screen comedian, imitated through friends today that she would make a third attempt to go against the wishes of her former husband in endeavoring to launch the couple's two young sons on film careers.

The first move Mrs. Chaplin must make, however, will be to get a studio to offer Charles, Jr., 7, and Sidney Earl, 6, a contract. The Fox Film corporation, which had signed the youths only to meet legal opposition from Chaplin, yesterday announced two other boys would take part in the production in which the Chaplin lads were to appear.

Vendors of Poison
Liquor are Sought
By New York Police

New York.—(P)—Peddlers of death by 5-cent poison hid today from police somewhere in dim districts that most Manhattanites try to forget.

A jobless seaman dropped dead this morning from drinking wood alcohol. He was the thirteenth to die since Monday of the same cause and the fifteenth, police said, to succumb since Aug. 1 after drinking venomous liquor of one kind or another.

On the Bowery—where hotels are flophouses and speakies are "shock joints"—and through the "muck" of the waterfronts, the itinerant peddlers have passed by night, selling to derelicts a gulp of high-powered poison for a pan-handled nickel.

Defectives have followed their trail easily—it is a trail of unconscious and dying men—have been unable to catch any of them. Police Commissioner Edward P. Mulrooney has ordered an intensified search.

Because the peddlers are so fleet-footed, police are finding them more difficult to cope with than the "muck" of the waterfronts, and their wares are more deadly. The bottom price in the lowest class speakies was 10 cents a drink until recently, detectives said, but there are indications the competition offered by the peddlers is forcing prices down.

Crushed in Falling
From Wagon

Harrisburg, Ark.—(P)—Herman Ledbetter, 31 year old farmer, was captured today and charged with the murder of his two-year-old stepson who was beaten to death near here Thursday.

Scores of citizens joined the search for him following the issuance of a first degree murder warrant on the complaint of his wife whom he married a year ago.

Louis Minton, deputy prosecutor for Poinsett-co, said Ledbetter disappeared early Thursday after taking home the mutilated body of the stepson, Lee Powell. The farmer told his wife the boy fell from a wagon and was crushed by the wheels.

She refused to accept her husband's story of accidental death and notified officers.

A coroner's jury returned a verdict that the boy was beaten to death by his stepfather. Mrs. Ledbetter told the jury her husband had often beaten her son into unconsciousness.

"He whipped the child twice before he put him in his wagon and drove into the woods," she testified. Minton said the child apparently was beaten with a heavy leather strap with a large buckle on the end.

Gov. Roosevelt to Speak
Oct. 1 at Chicago Banquet

Chicago.—(P)—Illinois Democrats announced today Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt will speak at a banquet in Chicago Oct. 1. Later in the campaign, probably on Oct. 23, he is expected to speak in the stadium on a program with Judge C. D. Warren, Democratic nominee for governor of Illinois. He is expected also to speak at Springfield, Ill., or some other downstate city on that trip.

Wounds Husband, Kills
Woman, Takes Own Life

Philadelphia.—(P)—Mrs. Irene Etter, 37, daughter of a retired Norristown, Pa., financier and known as a huntress and markswoman, shot and fatally wounded her husband, killed her young woman companion and then committed suicide today.

The husband, Earl Etter, 43, a traveling construction superintendent, was wounded twice as he entered the bedroom of his apartment.

Clad only in pajamas Mrs. Etter then ran to the nearby home of her parents where her companion, Miss Gwendolyn Shinn, 26, a department store sales girl, was visiting.

Chasing her to the rear yard, police said, Mrs. Etter shot her twice and with the last bullet in her pistol killed herself. Miss Shinn died four hours later.

Police had not established the motive. Members of Mrs. Etter's family denied reports she had been jealous of Miss Shinn, but said she had been brooding over the death of her mother three months ago.

Can Europe Come Back?

This is the sixth of a series of articles on the possibilities of economic recovery in Europe written by H. R. Knickerbocker, noted newspaper writer and investigator, who visited all the countries of Europe in the preparation of the series. The sixth article will appear on Saturday.

Vienna—"How much money have you?"

This sentence, put by customs guards at the seven boundaries of the Danube states, is a sentence of imprisonment to trade and, until Danubian trade escapes from jail, there can be no economic recovery for this part of Europe.

For the ten-thousandth time the customs guard at the Austro-Hungarian border put the question, this time to the woman correspondent of an American newspaper. She answered offhandedly. She carried a book. The meager results failed to satisfy the guard. He called a woman agent and the traveler was compelled to submit to the humiliation of a personal search.

Again at the same border an American Minister to one of the Central European countries found even his diplomatic immunity of no avail against the eager, money-snatching nose of a customs guard. With no legal right to question a diplomat the guard asked, "How much money have you?" To save trouble the American showed his pocketbook. "Are you sure that's all?" insisted the guard.

At every crossing of a frontier I had to empty my pocketbook and take care to declare every penny of foreign money in any way able to take it out again. The rapacity of the authorities for any foreign exchange they can lay their hands on goes to such lengths that for a time it was even necessary in Austria to register travelers' checks.

KNEW POSTAL LAW

Denies Senator Davis
Knew Practically All
Contents of Magazine

New York.—(P)—Donald F. Stewart, editor of Moose Magazine, testified at the lottery trial of Senator James J. Davis today that he didn't print anything about awards made in connection with a Moose charity ball "because of my experience with postal regulations."

Davis, who holds a life position as director general of the Loyal Order of Moose, is on trial for participation in alleged lotteries said by the government to have been conducted in connection with the Moose charity balls of 1930 and 1931.

Stewart was the first witness at the trial, which began Monday, and was recalled for lengthy re-examination today.

Charles J. Margiotti of defense counsel, referred to a letter from Stewart to Davis in 1931 saying he considered it "inexpedient" to go into certain phases of the charity ball in the magazine. Stewart said "inexpedient" was used to denote "dead news."

Feared Postal Law

Then Louis M. Treadwell, chief of the prosecution staff, asked what other reason there was for not printing all the news of the ball.

"I didn't print anything about the awards," Stewart replied, "because of my experience with postal regulations."

"You mean the prizes?" Treadwell asked.

"Well, I thought it best to be extremely careful, to be secure and on the safe side," Stewart replied.

Earlier Stewart characterized a statement in his magazine that Davis saw practically every line of the magazine before it went to press as "rhetorical boloney."

Pressed for a more accurate description of the statement he said it was "absolutely inaccurate." Another article written by himself in which he was said Davis had begged in vain for objections to the charity ball and had then instructed the propagation department to "carry on the work," he said was also false.

New Economic Order Is Seen by Ripon Chief

Ripon.—(P)—Predicting an economic order "quite beyond and apart from the present insecurity of things," Dr. Silas Evans, president of Ripon college, urged incoming freshmen yesterday to "prepare early for a new readjustment."

"You will see an end of aggressive, materialistic imperialism," he said. "You will be free from passivities of life rather than unnatural activity which has characterized American life. Our present system will be revolutionized. Machines will make us freer, keep hours of work shorter and give us a high standard of living. The first consideration you should hold is for human values, not material wealth and other standards that prove false."

Miner Gets Life Term
For Slaying Officer

Harlan, Ky.—(P)—James Reynolds, 40, Evans miner, today was given a life sentence in Harlan circuit court by a Jessamine county jury on a charge of slaying Deputy Sheriff Jim Daniels, one of four men killed in the mine battle at Evans in May, 1931. The jury deliberated six hours. Reynolds was the sixth person given a life sentence in the Evans cases.

Al Smith Denies Plans
For Political Speech

New York.—(P)—Alfred E. Smith denied today published reports that he planned a political speech next Tuesday. "My program for next week has no item on it that comprehends any speech-making, either radio or otherwise," the former governor said in a statement.

Two Insull Companies
Adjudged Bankrupt
In U. S. District Court"Eat 'em Alive Mary" Is Revealed as Paroled Boy

Oshkosh.—(P)—The terrible "eat 'em Alive Mary," already barred from exhibiting at fairs in other cities through action of health authorities, was revealed here this morning as a 17-year-old boy, on parole from the Wisconsin Industrial Home for Boys.

The revelation before Judge S. L. Spengler in municipal court resulted from a visit to the Winnebago county fair, where "Mary" had been showing under a concession granted by the Protanza Amusement company, according to local fair officials.

Frank B. Keefe, district attorney who stated he had received numerous complaints, watched the show, then ordered the doors closed, had "Mary" take off the make-up, discovered she was a boy, and after questioning the lad, obtained the industrial school history.

"Mary" who is Wernard Gutjahr, and whose home is on Route 5 near West Bend, Wis., has received wide publicity throughout the state when authorities objected to a showing of alleged biting off the heads of live chickens and live snakes and turtles. Oshkosh police, who worked with Mr. Keefe in his investigation last evening, stated it had been definitely ascertained that the act was faked throughout and that no such bloody orgies actually were performed by "Mary," who was represented to be an African savage.

"Mary" will be turned over to officials from the state industrial school this afternoon, and Joe Lewis, manager of the side show is being held under $500 bond on a charge of contributing to the delinquency of a minor. Preliminary examination is to be Saturday morning.

Cunningham to Move
To Post in St. Paul

Washington.—(P)—The prohibition bureau announced today that effective Oct. 1 Maurice Silver, deputy administrator at St. Paul, will be transferred to Milwaukee, exchanging posts with W. Frank Cunningham, now administrator at Milwaukee. Prohibition Administrator Amos W. Woodcock said both had performed excellent service and the shift was made to give them new territory in which to work.

Sterling Fights
For Nomination

Appeals will be made to the proponents of free trade to remain in the government despite their antagonism toward the Ottawa imperial conference.

The flurry centers around Sir Herbert Samuel, the home secretary. Sir Herbert informed the executive of the Liberal party this week that Liberal ministers had agreed on the action they will take tomorrow. "I did not say what this action would be," he said.

If Sir Samuel leads the liberals out of the national government an awkward situation will face Prime Minister MacDonald. It is the general political opinion, however, that if Sir Herbert resigns over fiscal policies he will not become actively opposed to the government, but will continue to support general policies of the national regime, thus softening the blow to the MacDonald regime.

Other Liberals in the MacDonald cabinet are Sir John Simon, foreign secretary; Sir Archibald Sinclair, secretary for Scotland; Walter Runciman, president of the board of trade, and Sir Ronald MacLean, minister of education.

Both companies have been operating since April 16. Judge Lindley at his home in Danville, Ill., last night consented to act on the bankruptcy petition against the concerns presented by a Chicago law firm which represents a group of bondholders in both companies.

Earlier in the evening the receiver for the Corporation Securities company filed their report in which they held that the investment trust was "hopelessly insolvent."

The assets of the once $140,000,000 concern were so meager, the receiver reported, that they were unable to meet the expense of having an inventory made.

"They were bales and bales of worthless stock certificates in the treasury when we took possession April 16," they reported. "The only assets convertible into cash were $30,000 in tax anticipation warrants."

Through the maze of statistics contained in the report could be traced the last desperate efforts of Samuel Insull to save the tottering company. The statement of liabilities indicated he had obtained security from banks, from affiliated companies, and from manufacturers with whom his companies did business. Then, with other sources exhausted and the market value of the company's securities steadily declining he had pledged his own credit in a last vain attempt to stave off disaster.

"Favored Investors"

Yesterday was replete with developments in the investigations being conducted into the affairs of the company.

Relief Fund Advanced to Pennsylvania

$2,500,000 Available for Needy in Three Large Counties

Washington —(AP)— After a controversy that began even before the relief law was enacted, Pennsylvania today had a $2,500,000 advance from the Reconstruction corporation for aiding the needy in three of its largest counties.

With the money, voted yesterday by the corporation directors for Philadelphia, Allegheny and Northampton-cos came also an 800-word public statement which said:

"If there has been any failure to grant relief to the poor and distressed of Pennsylvania, the fault lies with the governor and the legislature of that great state and not with the Reconstruction Finance corporation. . . . Any statement to the contrary, no matter by whom made, is not true."

Gov. Gifford Pinchot has charged repeatedly in public statements that "red tape" was causing starvation in Pennsylvania by delaying the relief loan. Tuesday he took the dispute to the White House, asking by telegram a personal audience, but was told by President Hoover in a return message that corporation actions were independent to his influence.

In Milford, Pa. Governor Pinchot might decline to comment on the emergency loan grant pending a study of its terms, while at Philadelphia, Philip C. Staples, chairman of the Philadelphia Relief board, said efforts again would be made to enlist President Hoover's aid in obtaining up to $10,000,000.

The corporation directors opened their public statement by saying that "in view of the many misstatements which have issued from Harrisburg . . . We desire the people of Pennsylvania to know the facts."

Cities Huge Demand

The corporation recited that three days before President Hoover signed the relief act in July, thereby making available $500,000,000 for relief distribution, Governor Pinchot applied for a $45,000,000 loan—the maximum allowed one state—asking that $10,000,000 be advanced immediately.

"Fifty-one states and territories were eligible for relief," it continued. "If seven states, first marking applications, had asked for and been granted $45,000,000 there would have been nothing left for the other 44 states and territories."

The board said that after hearings on Aug. 2 and 4, the corporation directors had told Governor Pinchot they would withhold action until the state legislature acted. This body later appropriated $12,000,000 for state relief.

Pennsylvania then renewed its application with the corporation, the board continued, but did not supply all the information required by the corporation of governors seeking loans. It added:

"The governor replied that he had furnished all necessary data and declared that it was impossible to supply the information demanded by the corporation. This reply was made in spite of the fact that all other governors who had obtained federal funds had supplied the information."

"If there was any undue delay, it was the fault of the Pennsylvania officials in not furnishing the required information."

"PITIFULLY INADEQUATE"

Philadelphia —(AP)— Philip C. Staples, chairman of the Philadelphia County Emergency Relief committee, said today the $2,500,000 lent by Philadelphia, Allegheny and Northampton-cos by the Reconstruction Finance corporation is "pitifully inadequate."

Staples, commenting on reports from the state capital that the state emergency relief board might ignore the stipulation that the fund be allotted to the three counties and divided throughout the state, said such action would mean disaster.

If Philadelphia was to receive half the amount, Staples said, the city would be getting about $250,000 a month over the winter. He declared the actual need is $750,000 monthly.

Six Cases of Disease Reported in County

The six cases were reported as follows: Appleton, one measles; Kaukauna, three tuberculosis; and Seymour, two tuberculosis.

GOVERNOR ROOSEVELT ON POWER

There may be some persons left who think it desirable and possible to let matters drift in relation to the light and power companies. They understand neither the temper of the country at large nor the maturing convictions of enlightened and responsible men who are associated with the industry.

The production of electrical power on a large scale is the achievement of the present generation as the development of railroad transportation was the achievement of the two preceding generations. It proved impossible to give the men who built and organized the railroads a free hand in their dealings with the public; for the very qualities of courage and initiative which enabled them to create the railroad system made them impatient, inconsiderate, reckless, and often unscrupulous in managing them. Thus, toward the close of the nineteenth century it became necessary, as it had been necessary for centuries in dealing with other public services, to involve the power of government in order to impose upon the railroads certain minimum standards of public service.

The effort to regulate the railroads was resisted by those who controlled and managed them. They ensnared the different kind of struggle between the railroads on the one hand, the shippers, the passengers, the local communities and the small investors on the other. That struggle has poisoned the relationship between the railroads and the public and out of it has come a type of regulation which is based on distrust and is in many important respects rigid, wasteful and vindictive. The development of American railroading has been

Partisan Rule of Schools Threat to Education, Claim

U. W. President Decries Political Attacks Upon Institution

Madison —(AP)— One of the major problems confronting the younger generation is to keep schools free from partisan control, President Glenn Frank of the University of Wisconsin said in a speech today welcoming students to the university.

The men and women of the younger generation must support educational institutions to the fullest and give them a chance "to play a constructive role in the salvaging and stabilizing of our civilization," he said.

The president concluded his speech with commenting on the attacks to which the university has been subjected, saying:

"May I express the hope that, as the smoke of battle recedes into the distance, politicians and press alike may settle down to the realization that the University of Wisconsin is an educational institution, and not a training station or tool for partisans of any limited breed."

Schools, colleges and universities are passing through a critical test as a result of the business collapse, Dr. Frank said.

"In piping times of peace and plenty we generously support our institutions without too great bother to subject their services to continuous critical assessment," he said. "But when the pinch comes, we begin to say that we must spend our money more carefully in the places where the returns are clearly justifying the investment."

"All this is good if we keep our judgments honest and ground our politics in facts. There is in such a time, however, a powerful temptation to trump up false charges against our public institutions and to use these charges as a smoke screen behind which to hide a slackening loyalty to these basic agencies of our social order."

Wieckert Harvests Large Alfalfa Crop

BY W. F. WINSEY

Although there are a large number of fine fields of alfalfa in Outagamie-co, the season has not been exactly right to produce paying yields of seed. One of the best fields contains 30 acres and is on the farm of Walter H. Wieckert, route 4, proprietor of the Wieckert farms. He is one of the most successful producers of alfalfa seed in this section of Wisconsin. Two years ago he threshed about 80 bushels of seed.

As soon as Mr. Wieckert discovered that he could expect a crop from his field, he immediately cut his crop for hay and got a very satisfactory yield for this season. He intends to market his surplus alfalfa hay.

Mr. Wieckert has a machine on his farm bailing hay and bails his surplus to make room in his barn for more or to meet the market demands.

He considers alfalfa a profitable cash crop and excellent soil builder.

100 Cords of Wood From Tree-Trimming

Appleton's tree-trimming project, still in progress, has produced about 100 cords of wood, which will be used for firewood by indigent families this winter. The wood is now drying out at the stock fairgrounds, where it is hauled after being cut from the trees.

The tree-trimming crews have just about completed all the area between N. Division-st. and Oneida-st. north of College-ave. and east of Oneida-st. to the river South of the avenue.

Picture Still Shadowy but Is Being Brought Into Clearer Relief

BY BYRON PRICE

Washington —(AP)— Another week of Democratic activity and Republican preparation has brought the major outline of the political campaign into somewhat clearer relief, although certain important elements of the picture still are shadowy and uncertain.

A large section of the country now has seen Governor Roosevelt in action on the stump, as he expressed at length his views on agriculture, railroads, power, the tariff and other topics.

On the republican side, plans for a later drive for votes have taken definite shape after long conference. President Hoover is to open his campaign during the week of Oct. 4, with a speech devoted to various issues, and to follow it up with two other principal addresses.

The week likewise has seen the last of the 1932 state primaries, including an upset of the LaFollette campaign in New York. The tickets now are complete except in a small handful of cases, where nominations are to be made later by convention; and all along the line, in presidential, state and congressional contests, all parties have been under way and the campaign is in the final stage of organized campaigning.

It still is in doubt just what the central pattern of that campaigning will be. Both Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Hoover have said that economic recovery was the prime issue of the campaign, but that is a broad subject embracing many subdivisions. As the prohibition and anti-prohibition organizations go into action it is increasingly certain that the dry laws will be much debated, particularly in the congressional contests.

Outstanding figures of the campaign of 1932 still clothe their 1932 intentions in silence, but predictions are heard among the well-informed that neither Alfred E. Smith nor William E. Borah will let the campaign end without having his say.

Except Smith to Act

Some of Smith's friends believe he will definitely decline his position when the New York Democratic state convention meets during the first week of October, just as Governor Roosevelt returns from his trip to the west coast.

The reports have made the convention the focus of extraordinary expectations.

The rumors about Borah are not so detailed. He remains at his home in Idaho, saying something now and then about issues in which he is particularly interested, but declaring his support for no one. He did say weeks ago he could not support Mr. Hoover on the prohibition plank adopted by the Republicans at Chicago.

Those who know him best, however, can not envisage him permanently in the role of a recluse; they very strongly suspect he will be heard from in spectacular fashion sooner or later, one way or another.

While all of these weighty matters shape up in the two great parties, the most active campaigner of them all is neither a Democrat nor a Republican but Norman Thomas, the Socialist nominee for president.

He is after a record Socialist vote in 1932, and his supporters are encouraged they are estimating the total in millions.

Party Drives Soon to Enter Final Stages

Picture Still Shadowy but Is Being Brought Into Clearer Relief

BY BYRON PRICE

Washington —(AP)— Another week of Democratic activity and Republican preparation has brought the major outline of the political campaign into somewhat clearer relief, although certain important elements of the picture still are shadowy and uncertain.

A large section of the country now has seen Governor Roosevelt in action on the stump, as he expressed at length his views on agriculture, railroads, power, the tariff and other topics.

On the republican side, plans for a later drive for votes have taken definite shape after long conference. President Hoover is to open his campaign during the week of Oct. 4, with a speech devoted to various issues, and to follow it up with two other principal addresses.

The week likewise has seen the last of the 1932 state primaries, including an upset of the LaFollette campaign in New York. The tickets now are complete except in a small handful of cases, where nominations are to be made later by convention; and all along the line, in presidential, state and congressional contests, all parties have been under way and the campaign is in the final stage of organized campaigning.

It still is in doubt just what the central pattern of that campaigning will be. Both Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Hoover have said that economic recovery was the prime issue of the campaign, but that is a broad subject embracing many subdivisions. As the prohibition and anti-prohibition organizations go into action it is increasingly certain that the dry laws will be much debated, particularly in the congressional contests.

Outstanding figures of the campaign of 1932 still clothe their 1932 intentions in silence, but predictions are heard among the well-informed that neither Alfred E. Smith nor William E. Borah will let the campaign end without having his say.

Except Smith to Act

Some of Smith's friends believe he will definitely decline his position when the New York Democratic state convention meets during the first week of October, just as Governor Roosevelt returns from his trip to the west coast.

The reports have made the convention the focus of extraordinary expectations.

The rumors about Borah are not so detailed. He remains at his home in Idaho, saying something now and then about issues in which he is particularly interested, but declaring his support for no one. He did say weeks ago he could not support Mr. Hoover on the prohibition plank adopted by the Republicans at Chicago.

Those who know him best, however, can not envisage him permanently in the role of a recluse; they very strongly suspect he will be heard from in spectacular fashion sooner or later, one way or another.

While all of these weighty matters shape up in the two great parties, the most active campaigner of them all is neither a Democrat nor a Republican but Norman Thomas, the Socialist nominee for president.

He is after a record Socialist vote in 1932, and his supporters are encouraged they are estimating the total in millions.

(Special to Post-Crescent)

Waupaca —Mr. and Mrs. Lester L. Perry of this city celebrated their sixtieth wedding anniversary Sunday. Lester Perry and Amelia J. Jordan were married at Rural town of Dayton, Sept. 18, 1872, by the Rev. S. H. Ashmun. Kate Jordan sister of the bride was bridesmaid and Judd Winkler acted as best man. They lived for a few years at the old Perry homestead in Badger, then purchased a farm in the town of Dayton on wild land, and built their log cabin, afterwards building a frame house.

They lived on this farm about 30 years, and then purchased a home in Waupaca where they still reside. Mr. and Mrs. Perry both enjoy good health. Mr. Perry is 81 and Mrs. Perry 80. They have one son, Leonard, who resides in Cable, and one grandson Lee who lives in Platteville, and two great grand children, Leatrice Joan and Nancy Lee of Platteville.

Mr. Perry has only one brother, the Rev. Willard Perry of Milwaukee, who with his wife spent the day in the city. The day was spent quietly with friends congratulating them.

149 Persons are Given Employment by City

Under the work-for-aid plan instituted by the city five weeks ago, 149 different individuals have been given work, according to the monthly report of F. A. W. Hammond of the public relief department. Altogether, these persons worked 8,634 hours, effecting a saving of $2,460 to the city.

Seventy-one men and women were placed on remunerative jobs during the month.

Food distributed from the store-room during the past five weeks included: 2,155 cans of milk, 469 of tomatoes, 488 of salmon, 965 pounds of syrup, 727 of crackers, 3,200 of sugar, 585 of beans, 160 of peas, 338 of rice, 15,165 of potatoes, 818 of coffee, 408 of oatmeal, 2,400 of laundry soap, 1,309 of butter, 894 of peanut butter, 906 of salt, 644 of prunes, 288 of macaroni, and 360 49-pound bags of flour.

City Is Relieved of Support of 14 Persons

The city was relieved of the support of 14 persons during the period extending from Aug. 18 to Sept. 1, according to the monthly report of Maude E. Priest, investigator for the public relief department. Of these six were found to be unworthy, three were non-residents, and aid for five was discontinued.

One family was transferred from a house renting at $5 a month to one costing $8 a month, one man was placed on a job with board and salary, and a man and his wife were placed on a farm with board and salary.

Miss Priest made 82 calls during the month.

Engineers Plan Detour For Mississippi River

Vicksburg, Miss. —(AP)— Father Mississippi, a genial old reprobate except when he gets full up north and staggers home to track up the place with mud, is going to follow a new path in his wanderings around the bluff country.

His only master, the United States government, has decided the old man will behave better if he detours at Diamond point. So engineers will build him a straight road there and try to make him follow it.

The Mississippi River commission offices here announced the plan yesterday and said work on the cut-off will begin immediately.

"Diamond point is south of Vicksburg and is separated from the river by Davis island on which stood the home of Jefferson Davis, president of the Confederacy."

The detour will shorten the navigation route by 10 miles and will lower the backwater flood area, engineers said.

The new channel will be two miles long and its construction will require removal of about three million yards of earth.

"Dat ol' river" has cut up scandalously around Diamond point for many years. He has a way of taking on heavy loads up north and then swaggering down the valley looking for new paths. When he finds one he likes, he often just moves over and takes the road, and he usually takes a bunch of plantation homes, a lot of cabins, and a heap of cotton land with him. He got on a terrible spree once and was so full of floodwater and so ugly at Diamond point that a rich, populated area there was abandoned. Folks down here will argue with the old man until he gets too full, and then they move out and let him wreck the place.

On one of his flings he shifted the channel near Diamond point and changed it from fine cotton land to a wilderness. He did the same thing to Davis island. It wasn't many years ago, as Father Mississippi measures time, that the island had its "big houses" and slave quarters, and gentlemen rode fine horses over its verdant paths.

Mrs. Cheer: Well let's be thankful we have our health. Dishwashing ain't exactly fun, but it's over soon when you use Oxydol.

Women say Oxydol has done more to lighten the rubbing and scrubbing that is a part of housekeeping than all the new fangled inventions. It is a marvelous new soap that gives half again as much suds, cuts grease faster, loosens dirt quicker, makes things spick-and-span with least effort. Easy on hands, too. And it doesn't ball up—every particle dissolves instantly into rich foamy suds. That's why it's so economical.

Roosevelt Is Welcomed at Golden Gate

Democratic Candidate at Half-Way Point of Long Journey

San Francisco—(P)—At the half way point on his 8,900 mile presidential campaign, Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt today was within 35 miles of the legal residence of President Hoover, his rival for White House occupancy. Mr. Hoover's home is at Palo Alto, south of San Francisco.

Enthusiasm by a tumultuous reception last night, the Democratic candidate today faced a busy program of speeches and conferences with state and local party leaders.

Police estimated approximately 100,000 persons jammed the waterfront at Oakland and the Embarcadero, San Francisco's water front, and along Market-st., as Mr. Roosevelt entered the Golden Gate city and drove to the historic palace hotel.

His suite at the palace was on the sixth floor, three floors under where the late President Harding died in 1922. Roosevelt, as vice presidential nominee in 1920, was one of the Democrats' chief campaigners against Harding.

Soon after he arrived, Mr. Roosevelt was visited by Gov. James Rolph, Jr., a Republican, who came to pay his respects to the Empire State chief executive. They had dinner together.

Eleventh Day of Tour

Today was the eleventh of the Roosevelt campaign tour. From here he swings south to Los Angeles and the return journey by way of Arizona, New Mexico, Colorado, Nebraska, Iowa, Wisconsin, Illinois and Michigan. He will return to Albany on Oct. 3 in time for the state convention of his party.

After leaving Los Angeles at 1 a. m., Sunday, Roosevelt will go to Phoenix, for a brief stop. From there he will journey to Williams and the ranch of Mrs. John C. Greenway, Arizona national committee woman, and a close friend of the Roosevelts. Mrs. Roosevelt will join the party at the Greenway ranch.

She could not make all the trip because of her desire to help her two younger sons, John and Franklin, Jr., prepare for the school year at Groton in Massachusetts.

Before he leaves at 10 p. m. Pacific standard time tonight, Mr. Roosevelt will have made two speeches here. The first at noon before the Commonwealth club, an organization of leading business and professional men, will be non-political. At 8 p. m., the nominee will make an address in the Civic auditorium.

In his southward journey Mr. Roosevelt will follow the coast line of the Southern Pacific through the country that the Spanish settled four centuries ago. The cities and towns in name and landmark reflect the settlement of that territory. The following stops are scheduled: Watsonville Junction 12.30 a. m.; San Luis Obispo 4.30; Santa Barbara 7.45 with arrival at Los Angeles at 10.50 a. m.

"Genuine Progress"

At Sacramento yesterday en route from Portland, Mr. Roosevelt said "prominent members and thousands of the rank and file of the other party have declared their belief that the principles I stand for are the principles of genuine American progress."

"I invite them; I welcome them, and I pledge my faith to the principles that have brought us together."

The Democratic nominee climaxed his brief talk at the state capital with a laudatory reference to United States Senator Hiram Johnson, Progressive Republican, a native of Sacramento and once governor of the state. He said:

"I am particularly glad to be here in Sacramento today and speak to the townspeople of a man who has done so much to further Progressive thought and courageous public action. I refer to your own Senator Hiram Johnson—long a warrior in the ranks of pure American progress."

"I rejoice that he said yesterday that a government that thinks only of a favored few and that forgets farmers whose homes are being taken away from them, and toilers whose wages have been decreased to the danger line, 'is unworthy of the name and unfit to govern.' I believe in this doctrine myself 100 per cent."

At virtually every stop in his trip down the Sacramento valley, Mr. Roosevelt appealed for Republican and independent votes with the declaration that the Democratic campaign was against the "Republican leadership."

Need New Leadership

Again in the Sacramento speech, he said "there is another principle that I am stressing wherever I speak that I know is in line with the fundamental ideas of your state and that is that in this campaign there is going to be less following of party lines than ever before in history."

"The people of this country have come to believe that what this country needs is new leadership and that the battle we are waging is a battle for new leaders—not a mere change of party; not a mere change of principle—a new deal."

William G. McAdoo, senatorial candidate, following Roosevelt's talk said "California never did a grander thing than go to his (Roosevelt's) assistance in the Chicago convention."

He added "in 1916 California elected that grand American, Woodrow Wilson, and in 1932 we are going to repeat that accomplishment."

It was California's and Texas' swing from Speaker John H. Garner to Roosevelt on the fourth ballot that assured the New York governor's nomination.

Harmony prevails in Democratic ranks in California, said McAdoo, and he was echoed by Julius Wardell, whom he defeated for the senatorial nomination. Wardell was a pre-convention Roosevelt leader. Both McAdoo and Wardell as well as several other Garner, Roosevelt

Counters to Finish Vote Tally Today

Report Indicates That Sigman Gains 5 Votes Over Wheeler

With only 12 more precincts to be canvassed, the official canvassing board, which is working at the office of John E. Hantschel, county clerk, expected to complete its task of canvassing the results of the voting at the primary election in the county Tuesday, late this afternoon. Thirty-six precincts had been completed at noon and only two minor changes have been recorded in the totals for district attorney, it was reported.

Oscar J. Schmiede, who ran third in the race, has gained one vote, while Samuel Sigman, who led the field, is reported to have gained five votes in Shiocton. The total for F. E. Wheeler, the runner-up, remained the same. With these changes the totals for the three candidates would be: Sigman, 5,278; Schmiede, 5,173; and Wheeler, 5,238. If these results are not changed Sigman will lead Wheeler by 20 votes and Schmiede by 105.

the companies once headed by Samuel Insull, and his brother Martin, now both voluntary exiles in foreign lands.

State's Attorney John A. Swanson made public, without comment, a list of 205 "favored investors" in the stocks of the Insull Utility Investments, Inc., a $250,000,000 enterprise.

With the list was attached a copy of an agreement purporting to be in January, 1929, by Samuel Insull and the 205 persons whereby they were permitted to purchase 250,000 shares of Insull Utility Investments at $12 a share. A few weeks later the stock was first offered to the public on the Chicago Stock Exchange at $27 a share. Later in the same year, before the stock market collapsed, the stock reached its peak of $147 a share.

The purchasers, however, were bound in the agreement not to dispose of the stock for two and one-half years without first offering it to the company at its market price. This provision, however, was referred to by assistant State's Attorney Charles Bellows as "a joker."

Many of the 205 persons listed were Insull employees. Others named included Owen D. Young, head of the General Electric company, against whose name was listed 4,000 shares. Another name given was "Fidelity South," 1,000 shares. South, Trimble, clerk of the national house of representatives, said at Washington last night that he had bought 1,000 shares of Insull Utility Investments at $12 a share. He asserted the purchase was made "before the stock was ever listed at all."

"I should have gotten out," Trimble added, "but stayed, like everybody else, until it was worthless."

Halley Stuart and Co., Chicago and New York brokerage investment house, was included on the list with the annotation of 47,000 shares.

Rosa Raisa Rimini, star of the Chicago Civic Opera company into which Samuel Insull poured part of his millions in the days of his affluence, was listed as the purchaser of 200 shares. A few of the others were Gen. Milton J. Foreman, Chicago banker, 1,000; Stuyvesant Peabody, head of the Peabody Coal Company, Chicago, 2,000, and Gerald Swope, New York, 2,000.

Decision Taken Under Advisement in Suit

Decision in the case of C. H. Sauer, Columbus, versus E. C. Koepke, Appleton, was taken under advisement by Judge Edgar V. Werner in circuit court yesterday afternoon following the completion of testimony. The case, tried before the court without a jury, was the first one since the opening of the September term of circuit court Monday.

Sauer asked damages of $243 from Koepke, doing business as the Appleton Construction company, charging that amount was due him for materials which he furnished the company while it was building an overhead on Highway 16 in the town of Elba, Dodge-co. Koepke denies he owes that amount.

Appleton Lions to Play Golf Monday

There will be no noon meeting of the Lions club Monday. Lions golfers will entertain New London golfers that afternoon at Butte des Morts golf club and at dinner in the evening. Dinner is slated at 6:30.

Several weeks ago Appleton Lions were guests of the New London club. Golf will start at 2 o'clock so the players can travel the entire 18 holes. W. A. Strassburger is leading the golf team.

DRUNK GOES TO JAIL

Ralph Schwender, Appleton, was fined $10 and costs, or given the choice of spending five days in the county jail when he pleaded guilty of drunkenness before Judge Theodore Berg in municipal court this morning. He chose the latter alternative. Schwender was arrested last night at a dance at Mackville by Jack Frenzy, dance hall inspector.

Buyer Eliminates Profits, Cabbage Growers Benefit

A plan whereby members of the Appleton Cabbage Growers' association can market their cabbage crop without having to pay a middleman's profit, has been instituted by William Williams, Appleton buyer, according to Gustav E. Sell, county agent. Many members of the association are taking advantage of the plan by which Mr. Williams has eliminated his profit entirely. The use of a special worker to load the cars also has been discontinued and the farmers do the loading themselves, under the supervision of Mr. Williams. This plan, according to Mr. Sell, saves the farmers from 50 to 75 cents per ton on their crop.

Charge Father Helped Son Hide Stolen Property

William Guyette Being Held Pending Arraignment in Court Here

William Guyette, town of Bovina, father of Theodore Guyette, 20, who confessed Sunday at New London that he and two other men, now being sought, burglarized the Sleaf Hardware store at Shiocton last Friday night, is being held in the county jail here pending his arraignment in municipal court on a charge of aiding in the concealment of stolen property. Guyette was arrested yesterday by Sheriff John Lapp.

Following the youth's confession, after he had been arrested in connection with three burglaries in New London, the officers went to his home and the father showed them where a radio was hidden in the woods and a rifle was buried in a field. These articles were included in the $500 worth of loot taken in the Shiocton burglary.

The Guyette, with his brother, Aloysius, 24, and William Locke, 18, are being held in the jail at Waupaca pending settlement of the charges against them in connection with three burglaries at New London.

Fair tonight and Saturday; slightly warmer Saturday, frost tonight, mostly light.

General Weather

Light showers fell generally during the past 24 hours over the Ohio valley and over all sections east of the Appalachian mountains. Fair weather prevails over all the central and southern portions of the country, caused by a strong "high" area which is centered over northern Iowa. It is cooler this morning over the upper Mississippi valley and lake region, with light to heavy frost reported from Minnesota and central Wisconsin, but temperatures are rising slowly over the upper Missouri valley. Continued fair weather is expected in this section during the next 24 hours, with rising temperatures Saturday.

Urge Observance Of "Prevention" Week in Appleton

Fire Chief George P. McGillan Points to Huge Annual Losses From Fire

Fire Chief George P. McGillan made a statement today regarding the dangers of fire and requested every citizen, business man, property owner, school authority and welfare organization to lend the utmost aid.

"Fire Prevention Week," said Chief McGillan, "has been proclaimed for national observance by the president of the United States and will receive the support of state and county officials as well as of local authorities and organizations throughout the nation."

"The loss by fire during the past year, amounting to more than 10,000 lives and almost half a billion dollars in property damage, is reason enough why everyone should be vitally interested in fire prevention. All share in the tremendous financial loss through the economic effect of fire losses on prosperity," said Chief McGillan, who added, "Furthermore, hazards on numerous properties throughout the land have been increasing for more than two years until at present they constitute a menace, not only to health but to the lives and property of thousands of people. These hazards are spreading to a degree which makes large conflagrations possible, and personal care so lax that the public is making inevitable."

Chief McGillan pointed out that in some communities hazards are so the possibility of increased insurance costs which are automatically controlled by conditions the public itself creates in the communities.

Matches Big Cause

"According to The National Board of Fire Underwriters," said Chief McGillan, "the three leading causes of fire in the United States are matches and smoking which brought a loss in one year of over $40,000,000, defective chimneys and flues, responsible for a loss of more than $28,000,000, and stoves, furnaces, boilers and their pipes with losses aggregating $25,000,000."

The Chief explained that winter months are most dangerous. Fires are more prevalent then. "There is no time like the present, therefore," he added, "in which to make timely repairs on the heating apparatus or the building, in addition to thoroughly clearing out all rubbish from the premises before cold weather sets in."

"According to official records, 80 per cent of all fires are preventable and should not have occurred. This means that almost four hundred million dollars a year could be preserved from loss and that about 8,000 people might still be alive if proper precautions had been taken to prevent fire."

Fire Waste Council of the United States Chamber of Commerce that 70 per cent of the deaths from fire occur in the city, and 30 per cent in the country. Of injuries sustained by fire, 16 per cent happen in the city and 84 per cent in the country. It is pathetic to observe that of the deaths sustained in fires 31 per cent are among children under ten years of age and of injuries suffered 13 per cent are by children of the same age.

Many Dwelling Fires

"Classification shows that 67 per cent of the deaths and 49 per cent of the injuries by fire occur in dwellings, 29 per cent of the deaths and 16 per cent of the injuries result from fires ignited by open flames, 16 per cent of the deaths and 1 per cent of the injuries occur from defective heating devices, 23 per cent of the deaths and 26 per cent of the injuries by fire result from inflammable liquids."

"More than 60 per cent of the fires occur in homes, which means that every minute and a half another home is burned."

"Every day an average of 1,111 dwellings, 6 churches, 12 public buildings and 471 mercantile and manufacturing establishments are burned."

"No home or business concern can boast immunity with a new fire breaking out on an average of every minute of the day and night. The waste from preventable fires alone is appalling. Immediate concerted action to remove the fire plague from the midst of the American people, will do much to conserve life, property, employment and business, and will provide the country with needed capital to enhance its progress and prosperity," said the Chief.

"Do your part as a citizen and benefactor of this community. Help in this national campaign against fire," the Chief concluded.

"Knot Hole Gang" To Meet in Front Of Lawrence Gym

Grade school boys and girls who compose the "knot hole gang" at Appleton high school football games, will meet in front of Alexander gymnasium about 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon, according to C. C. Bailey, boys' work secretary of the association, who again will have charge of the youngsters. Junior high and high school students are not eligible to the "gang." They have been given special rates on tickets.

Products Week Exhibits Will Be Shown Monday

Thirty-Nine Manufacturers Are Interested in Local Displays

Wisconsin Products Week will officially get underway in Appleton Monday morning when Appleton manufacturers start to set up displays in the windows of the various retail stores on College-ave. The week will be observed from Sept. 26 to Oct. 1.

A total of 37 manufacturers have indicated they will take part in the exhibition and two others have entered tentatively, making 39 out of 60 local manufacturers. The number is far over expectations, according to Dr. R. H. Purdy, chairman of the chamber of commerce committee, which planned the event. The products week program is state-wide in scope and was started by the state chamber of commerce.

Cards announcing the products week program will be distributed to the merchants Monday morning. Windows that formerly showed books, groceries, ladies wearing apparel, hardware and other articles gradually will take on an entirely new appearance as manufacturing machines, pictures or miniatures of manufacturing machines are set up in them.

Monday evening the Junior Chamber of Commerce will hear a talk on metal industries by Richard Radach, of the Appleton Machine company. The talk is one of several to be made during the week about various phases of Appleton industries. The first was given last week when Gustav A. Sell, county agent, told the Lions about agricultural products of the county.

Tuesday noon Col. F. J. Schneller of Neenah will tell Appleton Rotarians about the paper making industry as another products week talk, and Thursday noon the Optimists will hear Elmer Root talk about wood working manufactures in the city. A talk on woolen goods will be given at a meeting of the Kiwanis club, Oct. 5.

Suggestions for menus, or foods that would be characteristic of Wisconsin, just as the clambake and New England dinner is of the New England states, has been suggested through the state chamber of commerce by the college of agriculture. The college has prepared several menus that hotels, families and restaurants may follow during products week.

Files Complaint Against Two Election Officials

Complaint against two election officials of the Second ward was filed with Mayor John Goodland, Jr., by Fred Felix Wettengel, Republican precinct committeeman.

Mr. Wettengel charges that at the primary election on Tuesday the two officials were guilty of discourtesy to the voting public, incompetency, willful neglect in complying with the election laws of the state, and conduct unbecoming an election official. In addition he charges Mr. Thomas with unlawful closing of the polls at 8 o'clock, and with the use of profane language and attempted assault on Mr. Wettengel.

His complaint states that unless the officers resign voluntarily or are dismissed by the common council, he will press the charges.

Mr. Wettengel presents the names of Mrs. Orville Bab, Republican, and Mrs. William Nema, Democrat, to fill the unexpired term of the two officials.

All-College Day To be Observed Next Wednesday

Arrange Program for Annual Event on Lawrence Campus

Plans have been completed at Lawrence college for All-College day next Wednesday, Sept. 28. Arrangements are being made by the All College club, of which Marshall Wiley is president.

Students will attend classes Wednesday morning, with the college day program being staged in the afternoon and evening at the Alexander gymnasium and athletic field. This is a departure from other years when classes were dismissed for the entire day. Another departure this year is the advance announcement of the time for the college day celebration. In previous years the day chosen for the event was kept a secret until it had arrived.

The program for the afternoon includes a series of contests between the freshman and sophomore classes, with the winning class being given the privilege of painting its number on the large historic stone on the campus in front of main hall. The afternoon program also includes a baseball game between teams representing the faculty and the senior class.

In the evening there is to be a dance at the gymnasium from 8 to 12 o'clock. Guests will be Dr. and Mrs. Henry M. Wriston, Miss Margaret Woodward and Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Trezise. Chaperones will be Mr. and Mrs. John F. Mills, Mr. and Mrs. Warren Beck and Mr. and Mrs. F. T. Cloak.

Urge Toxin Anti-Toxin Treatment for Pupils

With the outbreak of two cases of diphtheria and one of scarlet fever in the city within the past few days, Dr. F. P. Doeherty, city physician, urges Appleton parents to see that their children are given the toxin antitoxin treatment.

"While there is nothing alarming in the situation, nevertheless, with the availability of the toxin antitoxin treatment, there is no reason why there should be any diphtheria in the city," he said. "It is natural, of course, that more contagion should develop now that people are beginning to stay indoors and keep windows and doors shut, but any further spread of diphtheria is unnecessary."

The toxin antitoxin treatment will be given free to school children this fall, the cost to be defrayed by the county board. Letters explaining the plan have been sent to the parents of pupils by Mary Orblison, school nurse, and the administration of the treatment will start as soon as approval is received from the parent. No child will be inoculated unless he presents a written statement from his parents. The letter to parents gives the diphtheria death rate, explains the effectiveness of the vaccine, and urges the parents to protect their children against the contraction of diphtheria.

Dr. Doeherty stated this morning that whether the work is done by the family physician or through the schools, every child should be inoculated as soon as possible.

Yesterday Marks Close of Summer

Fall Arrived Shortly After Midnight Last Night, Says Almanac

Acquiescing with the dictates of the old sage, the World Almanac, which set the fall alarm clock at 10 minutes after 12 o'clock last night, trees are beginning to turn, leaves are fluttering down, and the early morning air has a nip to it.

Yesterday was the last day of summer, for shortly after midnight the sun crossed the equator, marking the autumnal equinox. Days and nights now are practically the same length, which gives the name equinox to this period.

It has been a warm summer, with temperatures higher than the average although they were not so high as last year when the weather was exceptional.

16 Days Over 90 Degrees

There were 16 days this summer when the maximum temperature was over 90 degrees. Last summer there were 34 such days with six heat waves, during which there were many prostrations and several deaths.

This year's greatest heat wave lasted seven days, from July 15 to 21, with the peak being reached on July 20, when the mercury climbed to 98 degrees.

The highest point in 1931 was 102 on July 16. Most of the days with 90 degree maximums were in July this year. There were 10 that month, five in August and one in September.

Less Rainfall This Year

Rain has fallen in smaller quantities this summer than last year. In June, a year ago, the total was 4.37 inches, while this June it was 2.28 inches. A slight increase was shown in July, the total being 2.26 inches a year ago and 2.51 inches in July this year. The August amount decreased from 1.87 inches to 1.31 inches and the September total is expected to be far below that of a year ago.

Rain fell on 20 of the 30 days in September last year, bringing a total of 6.61 inches. Thus far this month there has been only .61 of an inch of rain.

Order Formal Charge Filed Against Pair

Police and Fire Commission Instruct Attorney To Draw Complaint

A. C. Bosser, city attorney, was instructed by the fire and police commission at a special meeting yesterday afternoon at the city hall to draw formal charges against Officers Earl Vandebogart and Adna Thomack, who now are on suspension from the police department. The charges involve the seizure of 12 gallons of alcohol from a car parked on Oneida-st early the morning of Sept. 17.

Officer Vandebogart has admitted he took the bag, containing the 12 gallons of alcohol, from the car alone, according to Chief Prim, while Officer Thomack admitted being with Vandebogart when the alcohol was taken and of giving Vandebogart a ride to his home with the liquor. The matter was reported to police department officials by Officer Walter Hendricks and Chief George T. Prim immediately suspended the two officers.

As soon as the city attorney has completed the formal charges, copies will be served on the suspended officers. They then have three days to prepare an answer. After three days they appear before the commission to plead to the charges. Should they plead not guilty the trial proceeds at once. If they plead guilty the commission decides on the penalty.

Mission Festival at Church Next Sunday

The annual mission festival of St. Matthew church will be held Sunday, with three special services. The Rev. W. Zink of Dale will preach in German at 8:45 in the morning, and in English at 10:10. At 7:45 in the evening the Rev. Traugott Redlin of Kingston will speak in English. Mr. Redlin is the son of the Rev. E. Redlin of Ellington.

The choir, under the direction of Armin Albrecht, teacher of St. Matthew school, will sing several selections, and Miss Emma Fuhmann will present a soprano solo. A special offering for the mission work of the Wisconsin synod will be taken at each service.

Rally Day Service On Sunday Morning

A rally day service for the Presbyterian Sunday School and congregation will be held at 11 o'clock Sunday morning. The various organizations of the church will be seated in groups, and speakers will explain the work of the groups and their plans for the winter.

G. F. Werner will speak for the Session, Mrs. J. A. Wood for the deacons, Mrs. Mable Shannon for the trustees, Glen Pelton for the Sunday School, and Forrest Bennett for the young people. Franklin LeFevre, music director of the church, will discuss the music program for the coming year.

JUNKER THEORY A BLUNDER

If the Germans go back permanently into the tenacious arms of the Junkers the leaders must become familiar with Weltkrieg Ohne Waffen (World War Without Arms) written by Dr. Friedrich Thimme in charge of the German government archives at Potsdam.

The book points out Germany's weaknesses in cold truth by one who is sorry for them but will not gloss them over. Moreover, through the use of many secret and confidential reports, never before given the light of publicity, it is demonstrated that Germany was fully warned of what was taking place, and although many of the leaders feared the consequences that eventually came, they could not be avoided without a radical change in the German system of government.

Germany's greatest enemy in the war was public opinion. And the war lords could not keep that opinion out of Germany.

First-class always in the field of battle, in strategy, tactics, courage and persistence, the German government really permitted, says Dr. Thimme, the allies to win the debate that was flashing through every man's mind.

Dr. Thimme openly gives America full credit in its military effort and the beauty of its propaganda, for concluding the war. He reveals secret reports showing that "the essential factor governing public opinion is now the American propaganda. It is always exceedingly varied and dangerous in every one of its forms."

Although war was declared by America on April 6, 1917, it was only eight days later that the invaluable "Committee of Public Information" was created, and Dr. Thimme declares, this committee not only "sold" the war to the world but with brilliant success sold America's ideas to the German people. During the decisive months of 1918 the American propaganda with its flaming watchword to the German people "Nothing but the truth" did more everlasting damage in blasting out and destroying the confidence of the German people than most Americans realize.

The German government, continues Dr. Thimme with scholarly accuracy, floundered when it sought to protect itself. It had made the blunder in handling the war of turning the government over to the militarists. America was too smart for that. It kept its civilian leaders who permitted the military to direct military operations but drew the line, and severely, at the extension of their authority elsewhere.

That may look like a slight distinction. It is not. It is colossal.

With the civilians in the saddle American war aims were clearly defined. The German leaders failed to appeal to the German people with anything convincing as their purpose. Finally and because of the American propaganda Germans began to ask "for what are we fighting?" The military had no answer because it expected to change its aims and purposes depending on its fortunes at the front.

In this situation the Germans became a bewildered population. The war lost all meaning to them. And without morale victory is impossible.

Dr. Thimme continues:

"In such a war a people needs a spiritual idea, a conviction of being in the right. From the other side the ideals of world peace were being proclaimed even more loudly while the German government kept silence. No wonder then that a large portion of the German people finally saddled responsibility for the continuance of the war on their own government, as had been dinned into their ears thousands of times, by the enemy propaganda."

If the Junkers conclude that a modern war is impossible of success without civilian control of the government it will be in a sad mess, for their notion of power and authority is built on the thesis that the military is most competent in every field and should in time of war, rule all.

IS "MASS EDUCATION" DOOMED?

A few years ago prominent American educators were lamenting the growth of "mass production" in the United States. Colleges and universities had record-breaking enrollments, thousands of young people who were not capable of assimilating a higher education were flocking to the campuses, and many institutions were almost swamped with the rush of applicants.

Right now it looks as if the depression has entirely changed that condition. Latest reports from educators are that thousands of under-graduates will be unable to return to school this fall. Enrollments everywhere are due to drop sharply. Probably not a school in the land will have reason to complain of an excessive number of students.

The only trouble with this is that it won't weed out the right people. Among the young people whom financial difficulties will keep out of college are thousands who deserve and need a college education. The nit-wits who waste the colleges' time are as apt as not to be back with bells on.

THE DECEMBER SENATE

The November election will have an important bearing on party divisions in the Senate during the forthcoming "lame-duck" session of Congress meeting in December.

Three of the newly elected senators will take their seats at that time because they are elected to fill the unexpired terms of the late Senators Harris of Georgia, Morrow of New Jersey and Waterman of Colorado.

When Congress last adjourned division in the Senate was made up of 48 Republicans, 47 Democrats and one Farmer-Laborite. Included in this division was the Republican who took the place of Senator Morrow and the Democrat who replaced Senator Harris, both to hold office until the next regular election. Senator Waterman, a Republican, died after Congress had adjourned.

Senator Harris' successor is bound to be a Democrat but should a Democrat be elected in both New Jersey and Colorado, it would give the Democrats 49 seats, or a majority of one. Should a Democrat be elected in either of these two states, the situation in the previous Senate would be reversed, the alignment being 47 Republicans, 48 Democrats and one Farmer-Laborite.

In the last session the 48 Republican votes, constituting one-half the membership, assured that party's control by reason of the vice-presidential vote in case of a tie. Should the situation be reversed, the balance of power would rest wholly in the hands of the Farmer-Laborite, suggesting interesting possibilities in the organization of the Senate.

SOLDIERS AND CANDY

The fact that it was the soldiers of Alexander the Great who put the word "candy" into general circulation is probably not a discovery that will cause history books to be rewritten. But it is one of those sidelights on history that mean a great deal to those who like to get a human picture of the men of long ago.

This business about candy, as you probably remember, was disclosed before a recent convention of chemists at Johns Hopkins university.

Alexander's soldiers, it seems, got into India during Alexander's great expedition to the east, and found the populace addicted to nibbling at bits of a sweet root—something, evidently, very like sugar cane. The people of India called this confection "kand"; Alexander's soldiers, adopting both the confection and the word, soon made "candy" part of the language, and the word has stuck ever since. But it is not so much the origin of the word that is interesting as it is the light that the story throws on the fighting men of Macedon. Soldiers, apparently, are soldiers, in the fourth century B. C. or the twentieth A. D. Modern soldiers have an insatiable fondness for candy; so, apparently, had the soldiers of Alexander's army.

And thus, after all, is the sort of information we're always looking for in our history books and seldom finding. We are told in great detail about what the famous old armies did, but we don't often get much detail about the soldiers themselves; and it is details of that kind that would make history more fascinating.

The Macedonian's fondness for candy is only a starter. What more can we learn about them? Did that army have its hard-boiled top sergeants? Did the buck privates bellow continually over their food? Were there "dog robbers" for the officers?

Questions like these are not unimportant; they are the sort of thing that a lot of people would like very much to know. Alexander's men, for instance, will always seem more human to us because of this anecdote about the candy.

Opinions Of Others

LANSING'S NEWSPAPERS
 Lansing, the capital of Michigan and a city of nearly 80,000 people, will hereafter get along with only one daily newspaper. The Capital News has been absorbed by the State Journal because the former was losing money faster than the people back of it could take up the deficit. Consolidations of this kind have been going on rapidly of late, demonstrating the fact that under present conditions the newspapers have been as hard hit, or harder, than other businesses. All newspapers are sold at a small fraction of the cost of production. The difference between the costs of publication and the subscription receipts is made up by the advertisers. During the past two years or more the advertising volume has gone down to such a low point that many newspapers are in the red, the advertising receipts being insufficient to make up the difference between subscription receipts and cost of production. But for the intense political fight in Wisconsin, there would be but one daily newspaper at Madison, as both papers are losing money and the organ of the state administration is being kept going by political pap. It is our prediction that if a change of administration occurs because of the November election, there will be a consolidation of newspapers in Madison; and if this happens, the people of that city will be better served and the business interests will save money by reason of their ability to reach the public through one advertising medium instead of two.—Marquette Eagle-Star.

THE WAY the stock market went up Wednesday was something pleasant to regard. Of course, the rises only make the falls a little harder to take. . . . the stalwarts, of course, say it was because Kohler was nominated, the progressives aren't saying anything . . . they're doing some very heavy thinking . . . don't worry, they probably aren't through by a long way, yet . . . and the people who worked to get out the election extra Wednesday morning are just remembering what their names are . . .

Read about the hotel man down in Pennsylvania who ordered fifty barrels of beer from Germany delivered to him on next April fifteenth. All of which may be swell and may make a great prophet out of the hotel man. But, if he misses his guess, well, it's gonna take an awful lot of explaining to get that order past the prohibition men. By that time, prohibition men are going to be very short-tempered and very likely to clamp down on consignments of beer. Particularly beer ordered in the frame of mind in which that batch was ordered.

We still think that wire to a local luncheon club by a speaker who couldn't be present this week (at the time the Cubs were playing an important game) was one of the best. It read: "Grandmother died, funeral at Wrigley Field tomorrow."

That co-ed down in Indiana who's earning her way through college by raising and selling eggs may be a clever and deserving girl and all that, but there's one angle of her job we can't figure out. She has an alarm clock attached which turns on some electric lights in the morning and the hens think daylight has come and start to work.

Alarm clocks are had enough for anyone, but goth, we always thought that the chickens got up too darned early as it was. Did you ever spend a couple of days on the farm or live on the farm or live next door to a henhouse?

There's just no argument at all.

It's getting to the season where a few more husbands will be shot and a few more wives will be wearing black eyes than for the past three or four months. The bridge season, dearie, is getting under way. And, what with contract getting to be so popular, not only can wife shoot hubby for tramping her ace, but wife can shoot hubby for stopping the bidding at four clubs.

Now, too, that the warm weather has pretty much disappeared, your clever contributors can get busy again and start sending in your jokes, cracks, poems, stories, philosophies and wisecracks.

Just Folks

By Edgar A. Guest

AN ORDINARY GOLFER'S REQUEST

An ordinary golfer, I
 Ask no great mention when I die.
 Dismiss me briefly. Let me go
 Unmolested to the earth below.
 If words of praise you seek, use these:
 "He never stopped to hunt for tees!"

When I am ready for the grave,
 No lengthy speech from friends I crave.
 But common were the scores I made,
 But common was the golf I played,
 Just say, and let me sleep at ease,
 "He never stopped to hunt for tees!"

Say neither word nor celluloid
 My sense of values quite destroyed
 I've never wanted kegs and kegs
 Filled full with curious little pegs
 A few would satisfy and please,
 I've never cared for many tees.

I've never jostled friend aside
 Because a crimson peg I spied
 And made of speed a fearful burst,
 In hopes that I could grab it first.
 Say this and end my eulogies
 "He died and left no stock of tees!"

Looking Backward

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

Friday, Sept. 27, 1907
 Miss Margaret Winslow, daughter of Mrs. Rush Winslow, 731 Lawrence st., had been appointed to the position of assistant in the department of physics at Lawrence university and was to assume her new duties at once.

The marriage of Miss Isabelle Nichols and John Kehn, both of Appleton, took place the presence of relatives at the home of the bride in the city.

Mrs. Paul Frank, who had been spending some time at the home of her son, Charles, at Kansas City, Mo., returned the previous Wednesday to her home on Union-st.

Mrs. H. Markham and daughter, Winnie, returned the previous evening from Chicago where they had been visiting for a week.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Dettler visited at the home of A. E. Daise, Stevens Point, a few days previous.

Mrs. C. A. Sorenson returned that morning to her home near Camp Douglas after having spent the previous week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. N. A. Gmeiner, Pacific-st.

TEN YEARS AGO

Friday, Sept. 22, 1922
 Authorities investigating the slaying of the Rev. Edward W. Hall and Mrs. Eleanor Reinhardt Mills, his choir leader, turned again to James Mills, husband of the dead woman, that day, in their efforts to solve the mystery which six days of probing had only served to deepen.

The marriage of Miss Mae M. Schumaker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Schumaker, 813 State-st., and Frank F. Blohm, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Blohm, 953 Higgins-st., Neenah, took place Sept. 16 at Waukegan, Ill.

Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Kessler, 372 Vine-st., had announced the engagement of their daughter, Gertrude, to Harold W. Miller, Winamac, Ind.

Miss Eleanor Redlin had returned to her duties at the Aid Association for Lutherans of Watertown, Horicon, and other cities.

Personal Health Talks

OUR OWN INFERIORITY COMPLEX

Since the politicians and their cartoonists began representing the proposals or policies of the other party as "nostrums" not so many old customers continue to take Doctor Fussbudget's Lung, Liver and Nerve Tonic. The politicians and cartoonists are only partly responsible for this changing custom. The diet charlatans, self-styled food specialists, have contributed toward the change. One of these modern sharps has only to lay down a menu and assure the customers that it is good for high blood pressure, acidosis, indigestion, nervous exhaustion, bad teeth and flat feet; if he is careful to be quite arbitrary about excluding or allowing certain items, customers are convinced he is a wizard. If he has the gall to call himself "Doctor" it never occurs to the gullible public to inquire where or how he got the title.

For several years I have been sorely afflicted with an inferiority complex. I believe a great many plodding practitioners are similarly afflicted, but I speak now only for myself. I said inferiority—not superiority, as some of our readers would think more in character. This inferiority complex has cramped my efforts to enlighten the public. The acidosis concept has kept me much at sea. Repeatedly I have failed in with the intention of smashing the acidosis bogey to smithereens, but always at the critical moment up bobs the old inferiority complex to soften my blow, and I retire in a fluster, leaving the bogey still palpitating.

Acidosis was invented not more than fifteen or twenty years ago. At the time it was introduced as a working hypothesis I was so blameworthy busy trying to play the dual role of Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde (Jekyll in practice, Hyde in press) that I failed to grasp all the fine points of the new idea. Ok, we had recognized "acid intoxication" as a feature of various maladies long years before the term "acidosis" was invented. But the thing that eluded me was that the new acidosis seemed as had teeth and exotic healers were discerning more or less acidosis at the bottom of nearly all complaints, real or imaginary, and what was more, these aggressive buck merchants were ascribing acidosis to all diets but their own. Besides, one heard vaguely of prominent quacks within the ranks of regular medicine who were plying a good trade in anti-acidosis diet pills. All this contributed to my ill-acquiescence. How come, I asked myself, that all these near-doctors know so much about this acidosis business, while I can't find out anything about it to speak of? I began a painstaking research of the medical literature, and even made excursions far outside of the ordinary bounds of scientific publications, but with little luck. Finally I had to gather the output of the charlatans who were exploiting acidosis and analyze it, and then I discovered it was the bunk, and the inferiority complex no longer impeded me.

Now I wish to give this positive assurance to everybody: Acidosis never happens when the choice of food is not unnaturally restricted—say by fasting, imprudent or ill-advised "dieting." So we well old should forget all about acidosis and leave it to the doctor to worry about when it develops in the course of some grave illness.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

So Was David Copperfield?

Friend's baby was born with a veil, according to the nurse . . . (Mrs. R. S.)

Answer—All the myths associated with the happening are just myths. Can't give a clear explanation of it here, but if you will send a stamped envelope bearing your address I'll explain how natural the phenomenon is and why it is not so common nowadays as it was in the days before childbirth rated medical attendance.

Cataract Removal

Talked with Dr. — about removal of cataracts and he assures me less risk with older method of waiting than with Smith Indian method you recommend . . . (Mrs. A. K.)

Answer—Your oculist is one of the best. He has had as his guest Col. Henry Smith of Calcutta and he has done the Smith extraction in capsule in many cases, but still believes the older method is preferable in most cases. Anyway I assure you that you are in good hands and may confidently leave the decision entirely to the doctor's judgment.

Canned Shell Fish

Do you consider canned crab meat and canned lobster safe to eat after it has been stored in a lake-side camp all winter and probably been frozen? (E. H. R.)

Answer—Yes. Freezing makes no difference, so long as the food looks, smells and tastes all right. (Copyright, John-F. Dille Co.)

The Tynmites

By Hal Cochran

THE funny man who owned the zoo said "Now I'll tell you Tynmites who I am and all about my birds. My name is Goofy Guy. "I've been around the world, you see and caught things strange as strange can be. And now I have a goofy zoo. A real proud man am I."

"In this small cage each little bird is one of which you've never heard. That small one with the crimson head is called a clumsy-crown."

"Of course you'll never guess just why until I let you see it fly. And then you will discover that the bird flies upside-down."

"Now eye the bird that's half asleep. His head, but, as a rather steep for all he eats is jingle bells. His tummy must be strong. "He used to try to run away, but doesn't try that trick today because he knows that when he runs he'll jingle loud and long."

Then Copsy said, "Oh please tell me what sort of bird that one can be that has but one eye in its head." "He is a lazy bird," said he. "He sleeps half of the time, you see, and thus flies only half the time, so only needs one eye."

A bird then flew into a rage. It wished to come out of the cage. "It's crashing up against the bars," said Duncy, with concern.

"Please let it come out here with us. I'm sure it won't start a fuss." The man replied. "How wrong you are you'll very shortly learn."

The funny bird was then let out. It made the Tynmites run and shout when it began to fly around and chase them here and there.

Real quickly it nipped Duncy's nose and scared him near out of his clothes. Brave Scouty chased the bird away and shouted, "That's not fair!" (Copyright, 1932, NEA Service, Inc.)

A Bystander In Washington

BY HERBERT PLUMMER

Washington—Those gentlemen in charge of republican campaign speakers are busy now asking themselves how it happened that they overlooked Dolly Gann as a spell-binder back in 1928.

For the sister and official hostess of Vice President Curtis has developed into one of their prize orators on the stump. She is regarded as a big gun of the republican artillery, and a strong drawing card.

And probably no one is more surprised than Mrs. Gann herself at her success.

At first she confined her speeches to more or less obscure gatherings of women here and there more for the fun of it than anything else. She probably would have laughed then if someone had suggested she would soon be graduated into the big league class of political speakers.

In Demand

But she has. G. O. P. chieftains now use her on tough assignments just as they would a man. And the jovial, dynamic "second lady of the land" has made good in their estimation with a bang.

Just how good she is Representative Ramseyer of Iowa, head of the republican campaign speakers' bureau, has testified. He is authority for the statement that he gets more requests for her than he can fill.

Her success, perhaps, lies in an uncanny ability to size up an audience and talk to them about their interests. If her audience is composed mostly of women she tells them what President Hoover has done for child welfare, for the home. She doesn't mention "Brother Charlie" Curtis in her speeches. Her praise is bestowed on Mr. Hoover.

She talks about her brother after she has made her speech. If she is asked about him privately, it is then that she gives the Curtis side of it.

She Draws a Crowd
 Last winter in Omaha the national committee woman asked her to come out to help combat champions of the anti-prohibition cause in that section.

The day that Mrs. Gann was to make her speech a terrific blizzard swept through Omaha. The sponsors were convinced no one would turn out in that storm to hear a political speech even if it was to be delivered by Dolly Gann.

But when the hour for her speech arrived the hall was packed.

Treat Pupils To Halt Spread Of Diphtheria

Funds for Health Work Are Provided by Outagamie County Board

Plans for a series of toxin antitoxin treatments for rural school students for the prevention of diphtheria are being made by Miss Marie Klein, county nurse, for Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, Sept. 26, 27, 28 and 29. The series of treatments are the first arranged this school year by Miss Klein, with funds made available by the Outagamie-co board. The work started last year and a large portion of the students already has been treated. Miss Klein is pointing out that if there are any students in schools which are not included in these centers, who failed to be treated when their schools were visited last year, they should come to one of these centers.

Following is the schedule:

Vivian Duncan and Mate At Finish of Romance

Los Angeles.—(P)—The call of the trouper was blamed today for one of Hollywood's latest broken romances, that of Vivian Duncan, portrayer of the role of Eva in the stage and screen version of "Topsy and Eva," and her husband, Nils Asther, Swedish born film actor. Announcement Miss Duncan and Asther separated 10 days ago was followed by revelations of a domestic split between Greta Nissen, blonde screen actress, and Weldon

New Snake and Spider Battle on in Illinois

Elgin, Ill.—(P)—The latest news from the snake-spider war is that two spiders are picking on one eight-inch garter snake in the basement of the home of Roland Swanberg, a bank teller.

The fight is believed to have started at least a week ago because the spiders already have the snake wound up in about five inches of web. One of the spiders is a male, the other a female. Observers pointed out that even if the female follows the old spider custom of eating its mate there could still be one left to carry on a finish fight with the snake.

"This battle will go to a finish," Swanberg said. "There will be no interference."

Elgin is ten miles from St. Charles, scene of a recent struggle of 25 days between a snake and a spider, which was finally terminated by the mayor, following protests from humane societies. The mayor lifted the snake which is now getting fat on a diet of cream at a St. Charles hotel.

and Oak Park schools of the same town coming in.

Sept. 29, 9 a. m., Isar State graded school, town of Seymour, will be the center, with pupils of the North Seymour, County Line, Plain View schools of the same town and Lannoye school, town of Oneida, coming in.

Sept. 29, 9:30 a. m., Cicero State graded school will be the center with students of the Oak Leaf school, town of Seymour, and Spring Brook and Nichols State graded schools of the town of Cicero, coming in.

Sept. 29, 10 a. m., Sunny Valley school, town of Cicero, will be the center with students of the Pleasant Valley and Maple Lawn schools of the same town coming in.

Heyburn, actor and former Alabama and George Washington universities athlete, because they don't see things "in the same light."

Miss Duncan's attorney said divorce proceedings probably will be started by the actress. She married Asther secretly in Reno, Nev., in August, 1930. They later went to Europe where their daughter, Evelyn, was born.

"They like different things," C. O. Bacon, Miss Duncan's attorney stated "She is a trouper by nature. She loves to go places and do things."

B. L. Irving, attorney for the Swedish actor, added:

"Mr. Asther is just the opposite. He is almost a recluse."

Miss Duncan gained international fame for her role in "Topsy and Eva." Her sister, Rosetta, portrayed the black-faced role of Topsy. After her marriage to Asther, Miss Duncan retired from the theater.

Miss Nissen explained her split with Heyburn, whose real name is Weldon H. Franks, as follows:

"We found after six months of sincere effort to make a go of married life that we did not regard things in the same light. We couldn't agree about things that you can not get along without agreeing about. Consequently we have reached the decision that we must separate, which we have done with great fondness, mutual respect and regret."

The couple wed in Tijuana, Mexico, last March.

Point Out Way for Youth, Optimists Advised by Morton

Boys Need Proper Direction, Says Former District Governor

Pointing the way for youth is the greatest objective a service club can have, George Morton, former district governor of the Optimist club, told Optimists at a meeting at Conway hotel Thursday noon. Mr. Morton, an organizer of the district, was president of the Milwaukee club for two years.

The first few years of anyone's life is an unwritten constitution," he said, "and it is during these years that a boy needs direction."

You men of Appleton have a big opportunity in this college town, where there is no place in the world where a philosophy of optimism is more needed than in the colleges. You should promote the organization of a small group that will breed hope, faith, confidence and optimism to offset the spread of communism and socialism."

He compared the lives of Abraham Lincoln, the democrat, and Jefferson Davis, the aristocrat, and showed how their heritage and the environment of their youth influenced their lives.

Speaking of the depression he said that eventually the United States will thank God for the depression. He contended that it has brought out manhood and womanhood, and brought people to a level of sanity.

"It is the best lesson ever brought to the American people," he declared.

He spoke briefly of the election, saying that the defeat of the conservative wing two years ago and of the progressives this year was a good thing for both sides, that it will teach both parties that compromise is necessary.

New Data Revealed in Film on Cosmic Ray

Spokane, Wash.—(P)—New data on the mysterious cosmic ray were unrolled on films of Dr. Robert A. Millikan's electroscope here today. Just what the information means, the Pasadena, Calif., scientist was unable to say until after intricate calculations.

The information was gathered from as high as 21,000 feet here late yesterday when May R. G. Greene, commander of the 16th Observation squadron of the Washington National guard, took the electroscope aloft in an army observation plane. Two more such flights today were to conclude the Spokane phase of Dr. Millikan's quest for further knowledge of the rays.

Catarrhal Deafness May Be Overcome.

If you have catarrh, catarrhal deafness or head noises caused by catarrh, or if phlegm drops in your throat and has caused catarrh of the stomach or bowels, you will be glad to know that these distressing symptoms may be overcome in many instances by the following treatment which you can easily prepare in your own home at little cost.

Secure from Sehlitz Bros. Co. or your druggist 1 oz. Parmit (Double Strength). Take this home and add 1 pint hot water and a little sugar. One tablespoonful four times a day should quickly relieve distressing catarrhal head noises, clogged nostrils, difficult breathing and dropping mucus, and improve hearing. All victims of catarrhal deafness or head noises should give Parmit a trial.

Psychology in Dummy Play Is Important in Bridge

BY ELY CULBERTSON

Much has been said of the use of psychology in correctly bidding Contract hands. However, the opportunity to "fix" an opponent by the use of psychology does not end in the contracting. A really fine Dummy player is marked not only by his technique and ability to execute difficult end-plays (as there are probably scores of players quite capable in that respect), but by his ability to lead the defense into channels which best suit his purposes.

The good dummy player knows that he is not a magician and cannot make tricks out of nothing, somewhat as a magician would take a rabbit out of a hat, but realizes that to really "steal" tricks, he must have the cooperation, even though it is unwilling, of the opponents. Therefore, he must give them every opportunity to err, give them as many guesses as possible, and capitalize on any slips they may make. He should make his play of the Dummy as deceptive as possible, try to mask his intentions and give erroneous impressions of his holding. He should conceal the weaknesses and hide the strength of his hand as much as possible. Each hand offers different ways of doing this, and it is up to the resourcefulness and ingenuity of each individual Declarer to find the best way of leading the opponents from the straight and narrow.

The good Dummy player knows all the finesses that it is possible to take, but avoids taking them whenever possible. He tries to postpone his guesses as long as possible; something may turn up in the meantime to obviate his guess and save his taking a possible losing finesse. He is also aware that for every fine squeeze play, throw-in, or other end-play, there is a counterpart in the pseudo-play of the same type. In other words, pseudo-squeezes are just as good as legitimate squeezes, if successful. Similarly, making the defense think a hand is stripped and that they must lead up to your squeeze is just as good, if they fall and do lead up to your tenace, as if you had legitimately stripped the hand.

In playing a difficult Dummy hand, which seems almost impos-

MAN AND GIRL

Dear Mrs. Post: Do you think a girl fourteen years of age too young to have dates?

Answer: To be thinking about any particular boy? Yes, much too young.

My Dear Mrs. Post: The girl I like best has been spending the summer with her parents at their lake cottage. Both her parents have cordially invited me to come out and visit them at any time. The girl has named next Sunday and I would like to go. (1) Is it sufficient to tell the girl I am going or shall I write to her parents? (2) Should I plan to take my meals with them, or should I take the girl out for dinner? (3) Should I spend my time at the cottage or take the girl away for the day or part of the day? (4) In inviting a girl on an excursion to a park, is it proper to ask her to bring lunch?

Answer: (1) The girl is sufficient unless her mother has written you, in which case you write, of course, in answer. (2) You will probably take your meals with them, but it is well to be prepared (financially) to take her wherever she may care to go. (3) Depends upon what amusement offers. (4) Usually no. But if you are staying with her family she will probably offer to bring some sandwiches or what the latter can spare, maybe enough for lunch, maybe not. You buy whatever is lacking.

Dear Mrs. Post: We would like to know if it would be proper for two girls to spend a week at an exclusive summer resort without being accompanied by an older person. The resort is about two hundred miles from our home, enabling us to keep in constant communication with our parents. One of us is eighteen, and the other is twenty-two.

Answer: The word "exclusive" suggests convention and criticism. The latter might be capacious—or again might not. But two well-behaved young women can without danger of criticism go to any of the simpler resorts, especially those to which young business women are likely to go.

Coats Take Lead in Fall Fashion Parade

BY JOAN SAVOY

If you want to be in the lead when the coat parade starts down the avenue, you must either collar the mode in an alluring manner, or else have a sleeve that is big enough and unusual enough to take a trick or two of its own.

Coats are making themselves so attractive that they are able to get by whether or not furs are worn with them.

The coat at the left features a detachable fur-bordered cape with an ascot fur tie. The cape is fashioned from Kolinsky and woolen and gives as luxurious an appearance as any one could hope to achieve. The tail of the fur hangs down in a manner that is decidedly sophisticated. The fabric from which the coat is made has the rich dull texture that is the keynote of the fall fashions.

The coat in the second leads a double life, too. Without its fur cape it is a simple, tailored street coat, but when the double skin silver fox is joined and draped around the shoulders to form a cape it becomes a sumptuous dress coat. The coat is made from a new soft wool, and comes in brown, black, green or wine.

The new peg top sleeves, that accentuate the width of the shoulders, and at the same time subtract several inches from the waist, are the special feature of the third coat. The high neck closing which fastens demurely with a huge button is another attractive point. A new woolen which has a dull, smooth, velvety texture fashions the coat. It is flattering to the figure because of the slim and tapering effect which the hipline receives as a result of the extreme shoulder width.

This coat may be worn with or without a fur scarf and be just as good looking either way.

If Child Sulks, Have Physician Examine Him

BY ANGELO PATRI

A sulky child is the bane of a teacher's life. He puts a cold blanket on the whole class. He weighs like so much lead on the teacher's spirit. She treads softly around him. She tries to avoid his touchy spots. Then all of a sudden he doesn't like something. His elbow comes up on the desk. His head drops to his cupped hands. Clouds gather on his face and his darkened brow dims the atmosphere.

"If only he wouldn't sit like a dumb animal. If only he would speak out what is in his mind. If he would go out of the room and stay until he felt better. Anything but sit there glowering like a goblin. He gets on my nerves so that I cannot think of anything but him. I can't stand him in this mood."

So say we all of us. But what can we do? The sulky child certainly does not like himself. He carries his self tied to his neck like an Albatross. He is suffering more than any of us and he knows as little as we what to do for relief.

The sulky child is self-conscious. He thinks that everybody is looking at him, thinking about him, measuring him and finding him wanting. He thinks that everybody is against him. He finds that by sulking he can draw attention to himself and make the rest of the folks miserable. He rather likes the thrill of power that brings him. But he is unhappy and greatly to be pitied.

The first thing to do is to attend to his health. A healthy child does not sulk. Health gives him a feeling of power. His well being extends to his toes and to his finger ends. He keeps things in proportion. He knows that if he loses out here he will gain there and he goes on his way rejoicing.

The sulky child needs medical help. His diet needs adjusting. His body needs a thorough overhauling, tuning up. When he can laugh he will cease to sulk. Good health and then sound thinking, which usually comes easily after, does away with any feeling of personal failure. It is that feeling of unfitness, of being cast out, that brings the sulks.

Don't scold a sulky child. Let him alone until you can reach the root of his trouble. Instead of speaking about his dark mood send him to do something helpful, either for himself or somebody else. Give him a chance to do something in a field where he can shine you have the key to the situation.

Keep him busy. Keep encouraging him. Keep before him some idea of health, work, success. If he can be inspired by some fine personality let him have it in full quantity. But build up his health. That is the heart of the matter. Healthy children are cheerful, ambitious, satisfied. The sulky child is an ailing child. Mind and body need help.

Girl Cuts Meat for Orleans Housewives

Miss Styron is pretty, with dreamy blue eyes, daintily manicured pink nails and round dimpled arms.

Flapper Fanny Says

My own hairdresser, whose name is a synonym for new fashion creations and who is perhaps one of the best in the county (don't ask me his name for I cannot give it to you), creates an individual haircut in this way. Knowing as he does, the very latest approved Parisian and American fashions, he borrows the style that is best suited to the type of the particular patron before him. This fall certainly offers enough fascinating fashions to choose from. Next, he modifies the style he has chosen so that it will conform to the woman's features, shape of head, and contour or figure. For instance, if she has a wide face and full neck he attempts through her hairdresser to make them look more slender.

Next he will say, "Madame, the hat you are wearing, is it your favorite in the lines?" And if your hats usually follow the same lines, the same tilt or style, he will ask you to take it off and put it on again until he is satisfied that the hairline at the back is right, with or without hat, and that the lines of your haircut harmonize or conform to the lines of the hat. Now while I cannot give you this hairdresser's name, I do know that there are many experts who bear all these points in mind when creating an individual haircut and it pays to pay a little more, for the first cutting at least, if you want a new style.

My bulletin on coiffures offers many hints for apparently changing shape of face and size of features, playing up the eyes, softening a prominent chin or nose, etc., by means of the hair arrangement. College Course in Family Relationship is Desirable

BY DOROTHY DIX

A prominent college announces that it is going to establish a course for the study of Family Relationship. This should fill a long-felt want, for there is no other subject under the sun about which the great majority of people are so abysmally ignorant as they are about how to get along harmoniously with their own blood and kin and in-laws, nor is there any other one thing about which they are in such sore need of enlightenment as about how to make themselves really popular with those of their own household.

Strangely enough, this branch of the humanities has never been thought worthy of serious study. Other colleges have taught their eager-eyed young pupils the dead languages, but not how to speak the diplomatic word that averts strife in the home circle. They have been taught how to read the stars and calculate the eclipse of the moon, but not how to interpret the signs and portents on father's brow or in mother's air that presages a storm and that makes it unsafe to ask for an advance in an allowance or the use of the car. They have been taught to handle the most intricate chemical formulas, but not how to blend the antagonistic dispositions of a bride and bridegroom so that when brought together they will not make an explosion that will wreck a home.

Why the higher culture has not included a good working knowledge of how to deal with those with whom Fate has cast your lot, it is hard to say. Certainly no education could be more valuable to us than that which would teach us how to manage our husbands and wives and parents and children and make them like it, how to gumshoe the angles in their temperaments and how to pour oil on the trouble domestic waters. Those of us who could do that would have a right to consider ourselves really accomplished and be qualified for our M. A. degree, for we would be truly masters of arts.

The Story of Sue

By Margery Hale

ALL of a sudden Sue decided that she didn't want to meet Judge Thornton. His dignity, his almost chivalrous courtesy, his formality were more than she could manage just now.

Jack was starting to the door. Ted, Sarah and Joan had drifted into the sun-parlor.

Sue turned and ran up the stairs. She went into her room and sat down on the bed.

"It's silly to have an inferiority complex," she told herself. "But after all Judge Thornton did try to convict my father in the bank robbery."

Sue sat very still, remembering. She could see the pathetic droop of her father's shoulders when he had been accused of stealing money from the bank which employed him. He had tried to hold his head proudly, thinking desperately that surely the world must know he wouldn't. He couldn't have done such a thing.

Judge Thornton's legal firm had been the bank's counsel, and prosecuted the case for the bank. Jack had resigned from the firm, indignant over everything, and defended her father.

A warm little rush of happiness crept into Sue's heart even now, as she remembered his loyalty.

But when Mr. Merryman had been freed, and the real thief had confessed, Judge Thornton hadn't apologized.

"He calls it pride," Sue murmured to herself, crouched at the edge of the bed. "But it isn't its edibleness. He wanted to win the case. . . he didn't care if my father went to prison as long as he defeated Jack. It hurt his pride to have his son go to the rescue of the father of a girl who had worked in his office."

"I don't want to see him. Not ever! He's a snob!"

Another name came drifting from the shadows of the room. Judge Thornton had called her into his office one day, long ago, she remembered, when she and Jack were first discovering that anything was more fun if they did it together. Her cheeks still burned as she remembered Jack's father's words.

"Are you sure, Mrs. Merryman, that you aren't stepping just a little beyond your class? Of course it is all right for you to see Jack and Harry occasionally. If they want to include you in their plans. But it takes money to move with their set and debt is never a good thing."

"I won't go down to meet him."

Sue wasn't aware that she had said the words aloud until a woman's voice answered her.

"I can understand perfectly, my dear, but I really think he's sorry."

"Miss Parsons!" Sue slipped from the bed. "I'm so sorry I'm not acting as a hostess should. I beg your pardon. Why can't I say Mrs. Thornton?"

The older woman dropped into a low chair.

"Jack's wondering what has happened to you," she said. "Won't you come down with me?"

NEXT: Sue meets Judge Thornton.

Dress Hair To Suit the Individual

BY ELSIE PIERCE

For many years there has been close co-operation between our hair-dressing and millinery experts. And I am sure we are all the happier and the lovelier for it. This harmony between hat and hair has worked wonders in highlighting feminine heads. During the boyish-bob bad, a woman's hair was anything but the "crowning glory" it should be. Today however, it is glorified. Gorgeously so.

We have gone through stages of the severely mannish haircut, the shingle, the over-fluffy, kinky type of wave that was so hard to keep neat and "put." We have stepped from the very short shingle to the shoulder length bob only to go back to the sensible, happy medium.

Individually

The boyish haircut went out long ago and with it standardization. It gave way to a more feminine and flattering trend which knows no limitations. Every woman has every chance to be an individual with a haircut styled just for her. Enlist the aid of a really good hairdresser with a reputation for treating every head as a separate and individual problem, the plainest woman can enhance her good looks, and add a dash of glamour thereby.

My own hairdresser, whose name is a synonym for new fashion creations and who is perhaps one of the best in the county (don't ask me his name for I cannot give it to you), creates an individual haircut in this way. GUIMPE DRESS IS PRACTICAL

For Tiny School Girls to Start Fall Term

BY RUTH ROGERS

Isn't this one fetching?

It's very gay too!

The dress is brown linen. Red and white plaid linen is used for the separate guimpe. Note how it buttons down the frock. It can also be worn with a brown and white dotted batiste guimpe.

It's very simple to fashion it. And it requires the minimum of material.

Style No. 853 is designed for sizes 4, 6, 8 and 10 years.

Size 8 requires 1 1/2 yards 35-inch with 1 1/2 yards 35-inch for blouse.

For later fall wear, a cunning idea that is exceedingly smart is a tweed mixture in wine-red tones with plain toning wool crepe guimpe.

Rayon mixtures and novelty wools are attractive with plain toning guimpe.

Our Large Fashion Magazine will help you economize. It includes styles for the miss, the stout, the matron and adorable models for the kiddies. Also modern embroidery for the home, lingerie, pajamas, etc.

Plan Project To Give Jobs To Indigents

City-Wide Tree Trimming, Ditch Cleaning Program Authorized

Menasha—A city-wide tree trimming project, employing men who are receiving city aid, was authorized by the common council at an adjourned regular meeting Thursday evening.

The work will be done under the direction of Peter Kassel, superintendent of streets. The motion authorizing the work, presented by Alderman Baldwin, provided that only the men who are receiving aid shall be put to work on the project, and that each shall work out of the amount he would otherwise receive in direct relief.

Following Alderman Baldwin's motion, Mayor N. G. Remmel spoke at length on the local relief problems, pointing out that although the city must feed the needy, it must govern itself along lines that will allow it to continue to feed them.

Predicting that relief costs will increase with the coming of winter, the mayor said that taxes must come down and that the only way that can be done is to spend less money. In providing relief, people must be educated to do their part in helping solve the problem.

The mayor referred briefly to a demand for higher pay made by a group now employed by the city and said that the city is paying everything it is possible to pay and get a return on the money.

Show Colors Now

"If we ever see Americans," he stated, "it is the time to show our colors."

In conclusion he referred to a considerable amount of money that had been paid to men given work by the city who were not on the list of unemployed, and said that no one should be given the work except those who are unemployed and need it, and those only to the amount that they are receiving in direct relief.

A resolution for the construction of a storm sewer on Warsaw-st. for about 150 feet north of Sixth-st., also classified as a relief measure, was approved subject to receipt of waivers from owners of abutting property.

The plan for removing the center plots from Nicolet-blvd. from Washington-st. to Ahnaip-st. recently approved by the Menasha and Neenah councils, was abandoned Thursday when the aldermen voted to rescind their previous action on the matter. A resolution to rescind approval of the plan also was presented at a Neenah council session this week but was tabled.

Mayor Remmel presented a brief report from the board of public works in which he revealed that the board had instructed the city engineer to arrange for the proposed alley 30 feet wide, in the 200 block on the north side of Main-st. The alley would require 10 feet from Main-st. lots and 10 feet from Broad-st. lots, and a further report will be made at the next session.

To Remove Public Improvement Projects

Several other public improvement projects were brought to the attention of the council. The city attorney was ordered to serve notice for the removal of houses now located on the proposed extensions of Fox and Lawson-sts. and petitions for annexation on portions of Jefferson and Lincoln-sts. were deferred by Mayor Remmel until the majority of property owners interested sign the petition. A protest against the construction of a sidewalk on the east side of Tayco-st. to Grandview-st. on portions of the city also was received and Mayor Remmel suggested that it be given careful consideration.

A hearing relative to a petition for a change in the zoning ordinance to allow a neighborhood grocery in the residential section at Milwaukee and Third-sts. was held in conjunction with the council session but no one appeared in opposition to the project and the permit was issued to Ray DeBroux.

Before action was taken, however, Alderman Heckrodt stressed the need of conserving the city's future and urged caution in such matters.

Considerable discussion followed Alderman Brezinski's suggestion that the use of electricity in opening the Mill-st. bridge be resumed. Brezinski contended that the traffic problem was of great importance and that electricity could be used with little expense to the city.

Plan Has Opposition

Alderman Grode and Heckrodt opposed the plan, however, both pointing out that the use of the electricity was dangerous from a mechanical standpoint and might involve damage to the bridge. Grode also suggested that the hand method be continued until navigation closed this year and that new gears be installed for the use of electricity next season. Mayor Remmel concluded the discussion by suggesting that the matter be left as it is for the present.

The soft drink parlor license of Henry Hackstock, 141 Main-st., was surrendered and a new license for F. Jensen, Mayor Remmel issued to W. F. Jensen. Mayor Remmel explained the need of five additional ballot boxes for the November election, and a communication relative to the convention of fire chiefs in the Great Lake division, at Milwaukee Oct. 5-7, was referred to the committee of the whole.

Restaurants in U. S. Buildings Are Under Fire

Committee Chairman Would Force Data on Profits and Losses

Washington—(AP)—Restaurants in federal buildings throughout the nation may be facing extinction if congress adopts the attitude apparently held by the house committee investigating government competition.

Representative Shannon (D., Mo.), chairman of the committee, is concerned about it to the point where he thinks legal action is in order to force the government restaurants to disclose their profit and loss sheets to private competitors.

Other members of the committee, including Representative Eakin (R., Pa.) seem to feel the same way, although those in charge of Washington cafeterias for government workers insist the plan is necessary and does not cost the taxpayers a thing.

Representatives of the National Hotel association asked to be heard today to back up the protest of the National Restaurant association heard yesterday.

Representative Shannon also is anxious to find out about the Washington "butter clubs" which he says he understands import butter from the country and dispense it among government workers, including White House employees, at reduced rates.

The feeding of the 320 members of President Hoover's economic conference of last month at the commerce department cafeteria where the conference was held created a storm before the committee.

Shannon declared himself "decidedly opposed" to this action. Colonel U. S. Grant, in charge of public buildings and grounds, and Frank W. Hoover, manager of the government department restaurants, insisted the time element was important in feeding the economic conference members at lunch. They said Secretary Chapin paid the bill of 50 cents each.

Shannon suggested legal action in connection with the reported refusal of Postmaster Schunk of Minneapolis, to disclose the facts regarding a grocery store in the post-office, about which the State Retail Grocers association inquired.

Rose Island, part of the Samoan group, has the distinction of being the most southern land to which the United States has undisputed possession.

Mass Meeting Will Discuss Holiday Plan

May Organize Waupaca-co Unit of New Association at Manawa

(Special to Post-Crescent)
Manawa.—A Waupaca-co mass meeting for the purpose of organizing a unit of the Farmers National Holiday association, Wisconsin division, will be held in Manawa Saturday, Sept. 24. The meeting will be held on the "flatiron" in the center of town, use of which has been donated by A. C. Lindsay, and seating arrangements will be made by the village.

Kenneth Hones of Colfax, vice president of the state organization, will be the principal speaker. Alvin A. Handrich of this place, secretary and treasurer, is in charge of the county meeting here. Officers of the Waupaca-co unit will be elected by the crowd of several hundred farmers expected to attend.

Mrs. Marie Grabbert, 81, died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. O. A. Hahn, in this village Sunday morning, Sept. 18. She had been in poor health for several years, and had been confined to her home the past eight weeks.

Mrs. Marie Weidmann was born in Mecklenburg, Germany, April 1, 1851. She grew to womanhood in her native country and was married there to Carl Grabbert in October, 1876.

They came to this country in 1883 and settled first at Saginaw, Mich. Six months later they came to Wisconsin and lived on a farm near Elmdale in Shawano county until 1913 years ago. In 1919, Mr. and Mrs. Grabbert came to Manawa to make their home with their daughter, Mrs. Hahn.

Survivors are one son, Ernest of Elmdale, a daughter, Mrs. Hahn of Manawa, one sister, Mrs. Dorothy Reusch of Saginaw, Mich., four grandchildren and three great grandchildren. Funeral services were held from the Zion Lutheran church here, Wednesday afternoon, the Rev. A. E. Draeger officiating. Interment was in the cemetery at Birnamwood.

Sale of the Manawa Creamery to Ira Heideman of Waupun was made this week by John Rasmussen. Mr. Heideman took possession at once and began the manufacture of butter on Monday. Heideman has experienced buttermaking having owned and operated a creamery at Waupun for several years. He sold the plant to Libby, McNeil and Libby in 1930. He moved his family here this week and they are occupying the Charles Dismore residence. Mr. Rasmussen purchased the creamery from Earl McPeak in March of this year. He has made no definite plans for the future, but will remain here, at least for the school year. He formerly lived in New London.

Mrs. Amelia Kuhn, 79, pioneer resident of Sycro, died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Rudolph Beyer, of Little Wolf on Wednesday afternoon.

She was born March 12, 1853, in the province of Posen, Germany. She grew to womanhood in her native land and was married to John Starcheska. About 40 years ago the family moved to America and located in the town of Union. About seven years later her husband died. Later she was married to William Kuhn, who died nearly 20 years ago. For the past 12 years she has made her home with her daughter, Mrs. Beyer.

Mrs. Kuhn was survived by three children, Mrs. Beyer of Little Wolf, Max Starcheska of Bear Creek, and Mrs. Mary Calkins of Milwaukee, 23 grandchildren and ten great grandchildren.

Funeral services were held Saturday afternoon from the St. Mark Lutheran church at Sycro, the Rev. G. H. Kitzmann officiating. Interment took place in the Sycro cemetery.

Arthur Zemple, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Zemple of this place, and Miss Florence Myhrn of Rochester, Minn., were married at Milwaukee, Thursday. They will make their home in the latter city where Mr. Zemple has been employed in the office of the Ambrosia Chocolate company for several years.

Champion Bull Dogs Fall Before Attack of Black Hawks

(Special to Post-Crescent)
New London.—The champion New London Bull Dogs were defeated Thursday evening by the Fort Atkinson Black Hawks 19-0. The southern team had a smooth running offense and in the first half had things their own way scoring two touchdowns. The game was on even terms in the second half until the last three minutes of play when the Hawks made their final touchdown. New London made their most serious threat at the beginning of the second quarter when a passing attack and some off tackle plays by Graney carried the ball to Fort Atkinson's eight yard line. They lost the ball here on downs.

Fort Atkinson's first touchdown came as a result of a pass and a crisscross play. The winners had a pair of good ends, Smith and Casey. Nine former Wisconsin stars performed against the locals and the lineup was as follows:

New London Fort Atkinson
Wrunke C Dahms
Freidrich LG Swiderski
Schimke RG Popp
Bannock LT Smith
Winters RT Reusch
Lathrop LE Smith
Laird Q Sheehan

Riske Trial Opens at Wautoma Next Monday

Special to Post-Crescent

New London.—The second trial of Edward Riske, charged with the murder of Henry Hoffman and Louis Kapitzke by poison at a barn dance near this city more than a year ago, will begin Monday at Wautoma. A number of local residents who appeared to testify at the trial held in circuit court last autumn at Waupaca have received summons for the trial at Wautoma. It is said that more witnesses will be called on the second trial than appeared at the first. Judge Byron Park again will preside.

The case aroused more interest in this section of the state than has any during many years. The two men died within a few minutes of taking drinking liquor from a bottle which later was found to contain poison. Riske, because of his alleged attachment to the wife of Hoffman was drowned in the Wolf river shortly afterward. At the trial a jury returned a verdict of guilty, which was set aside by Judge Park and a new trial ordered.

Highs Open Home Season with West; Vikes go to Marquette

Purple Won Opener From Menominee Hi Terriers Lost First Battle To Stevens Point Aggregation

APPLETON high school football team will open the Valley conference season here Saturday afternoon when it meets West Green Bay high on George A. Whitling athletic field. The game will begin at 2:15.

Defeated last week in a non-conference game the Orange is expected to show a bit better this week and is given an even chance to beat the Bays. West won a 7 and 6 victory over Menominee, while the Purple to be about as inexperienced as Appleton.

Appleton must win tomorrow's battle if it is to get into the running in conference competition. Fond du Lac last week played the first conference game of the season and beat Marinette to lead the loop.

Chairs at Marinette.

Other games tomorrow will show Sheboygan trying to hand Marinette its second trimming in as many weeks, Manitowish at Oshkosh, and Fond du Lac at East Green Bay. East, although beaten last week is hoped to win Saturday and Manitowish is a tossup with Oshkosh.

Although the season still is early, much of Appleton's success tomorrow will depend upon how badly injured some of the boys are. Coach Shields has indicated he will be forced to leave several excellent performers rest on the bench because of bruises and injuries suffered from falls on the hard ground at the practice field.

Drills during the past week have been on almost everything in the book. Scrimmage was started on Monday and a regular occurrence until last night. Tonight, if the boys drill, it will be an easy workout, designed to cover things that might have been forgotten.

Indications are that Jack Bowers will again start at center and will be flanked by Dutcher, Manier or Gramse. Dutcher has been showing well in recent drills but Manier has an injured foot and may not be able to start. Gramse still has a hand injury that hurts when it is bumped.

At tackle there will be Tillman and Schultz, two veterans from last season. The ends will be taken care of by Cliff Burton and Vandewalle, who did a good job last week; and Krause, who is showing well in drills.

Burton, Rooney at Quarter

In the backfield Coach Shields has nominated Cy Burton and George Rooney for quarterback positions. Popp will work at the plugging back and Charles Campbell as blocking half. Ernie Ruppelle will play the other half position. There are several available reserves, all lacking experience in valley play.

Bob Merrifield and Vic Salm are two members of the team who may stay on the bench because of injuries. Both hurt their hips, Merrifield being missing from practice for several days, Salm at practice but inactive.

Rentner Again Shows Well in 'Cat Scrimmages'

"Pugger" More Evasive Than Ever; Spears Shakes Up Badgers

CHICAGO—(AP)—Northwestern's football foomen can start worrying about "Pug" Rentner right now.

The all-American Wildcat half-back, who gained more than 1,000 yards from the line of scrimmage in his dash to fame last season, looks faster and more elusive than ever.

With his fingers crossed, Coach Dick Hanley asked his ace to open yesterday in a long scrimmage. What he saw more than exceeded his hopes. The "Pugger" dazzled the opposition with twisting, sweeping runs and flipped exceptionally accurate passes. Several times, he was too fast for his interference.

"They'll have some time catching Rentner this year," predicted Walt Paulson, the scribbling sage of the Wildcat camp. "He's better than ever and that's saying something." It was Paulson, who first issued the Rentner warning to Big Ten coaches.

Stagg Drives Chicago

As the 70-year old Amos Alonzo Stagg whipped his Chicago team together for the inaugural Big Ten kick-off against Monmouth Saturday, a freshman with an odd name and a great forward passing technique bobbed up in the Maroon camp. It was a husky from Long Beach, Cal., named Rainwater.

The University of Wisconsin Badgers will be idle if one can call two stiff practice sessions idleness—until next week when they meet Marquette in the much talked of battle for the state supremacy.

Two teams in the State Teachers College conference play their opening game today.

Coach Clarence Spears wasn't exactly pleased with the progress of his Wisconsin squad today. Fumbling and lack of coordination was so evident among his first stringers that he shook up the regulars with several changes. Coach Sam Willaman of Ohio State had his troubles, too. Three more regulars were out with injuries, bringing the casualty list to eight. Gailus, a guard, was out with a bruised shoulder; Conrad, tackle candidate of promise, suffered a groin injury; and Wetzel, fullback, nursed a bad knee.

Gophers Let Up

Minnesota and Iowa squads were allowed to let down yesterday as the coaches carefully scanned the material. Purdue's backs looked stronger than ever with a great showing against the strong freshmen in yesterday's scrimmage. Indiana already was experimenting with Ohio State plays. Illinois coaches were looking for tactics. The Potosky regarded as an ace in the hole at Michigan, may be used at fullback this fall instead of end. Rival coaches have listened to stories of Potosky's ball advancing prowess all winter and expected the change.

Packer-Bear Rivalry is Oldest in Pro Football

ing for the Bays, largely because several Packers found themselves unable to play shortly before the contest.

Added Another Win

The teams did not meet in 1922, but in 1923 the Bears added another victory at old Bellevue park, when Joie Sternaman clicked on a field goal after Basing's fumble, and the Bears lost, 3 to 0.

The rivals split in 1924, the Packers taking the first contest, 5 to 0, and then losing at Chicago, 3 to 0. In the first contest Brute Trafton of the Bears gave the Packers a safety on a wild pass behind the goal line, and Cub Buck added three points on the repetition of the 1923 battle. Joie Sternaman kicking a field goal when Dutch Herndian fumbled at an inopportune time.

Again the two teams divided in 1925. A whirlwind finish at Green Bay, Lewellen taking a pass from Charlie Mathys on then famous Packer "touchdown play," gave the Packers a 14 to 0 triumph in the closing seconds of play. At Chicago, with their new recruit, Red Grange, sitting on the bench, the Bears swamped the Bays, 21 to 0.

Play Two Ties

Two tie games were run off in 1926, the odd game of the series being taken by the Bears. The teams split at Green Bay, 6 to 6, and then were robbed out at Wrigley field, 19 to 13. The last contest was played at Soldiers field as a Christmas fund benefit. Packer's drop kick from the 50 yard line giving the Packers a 3 to 3 tie.

The supremacy of the Bears, although then drawing to a close, was demonstrated twice in 1927. The Bears took the first, at Green Bay, with Rudy Plunking down the Bays at Chicago, 14 to 6. Packer followers claiming Lewellen was pulled back after he crossed the goal line. It was the last Bear victory for many a day.

In 1928, the Packers were thinking pretty seriously in a championship vein, although the honor was not to come until the following season. In the first of three games the Packers rallied from behind a touchdown disadvantage to claim a 12 to 12 tie. Harry O'Boyle missed the last extra point by a matter of inches. At Chicago the Packers soaked the Bears, 16 to 6, and then took advantage of a touchdown gallop by Dick O'Donnell to finish the season with a 6 to 0 triumph. The shutout string had begun.

The whitewash brush was applied three times in 1929. The game at Green Bay went to the Packers, 23 to 0, but only after 60 minutes of hard fighting did the Bays take the second contest, at Chicago, by 14 to 0. The third, with the championship at stake, easily went to Green Bay, 25 to 0.

Won 2 of 3 in 1930

In 1930 the Packers took two out of three from their traditional opponents. The first game was 7 to 0 on Lewellen's touchdown and Packer's extra point. At Chicago, Blund and Lewellen scored touchdowns and Dunn added the point to give the champions a 13 to 12 margin. In the last contest, played at the Windy city, the Bears finally cracked through the Green Bay victory string, winning 21 to 0, after leading 7 to 0 at the half.

Three bitter battles marked the Packer-Bear rivalry last season. In the Green Bay game the Packers won through the margin of a Packer's touchdown and Dunn's extra point in the second period. Then at Chicago, Mike Michaleske stepped out as the master of ceremonies, galloping most of the length of the field, behind some fine blocking by Gantenbein, for a touchdown. The Packers won, 6 to 2.

The last game of the 1931 season was a classic which went to the Bears, 7 to 6, the margin being Packer's extra point after Litzler's touchdown. The Bay score was made by Johnny Blood.

Badgers Look Bad, Doc Shifts Lineup

U. W. Grid Mentor Sends Players Who Go Dumb To Second Team

Madison—(AP)—Although there has been a marked development since the Badgers started practice a week ago, Coach Clarence Spears probably is still awaiting the answer to a prayer for some good linemen.

The doctor tried various combinations in the forward line in yesterday's scrimmage and it is likely that he will continue to experiment for several more days. Frequent fumbles and loose playing which characterized the early part of the work out led Coach Spears to make many changes before the practice session ended.

Bratton started as left tackle on the varsity squad but after a few plays he was yanked and in his place went Mario Pacetti, sophomore, who has been on an off the first eleven several times. Koenig's passes from center went bad on several plays so he, too, went to the second squad, being replaced by Jerry Fernal, sophomore.

There were five sophomores in all on the first team. In addition to Fernal and Pacetti there were Pete Rotter, at guard, Densmore at end and Red Peterson at halfback. Peterson suffered a slight shoulder injury early in the scrimmage and was removed. Haworth teamed with Densmore at end. Kranhold was at guard and Goldenberg at tackle.

Hal Smith and Schiller, playing halfbacks, did most of the ground gaining for the varsity. Capt. Kabat remained at his new post of quarterback while Nello Pacetti played the role of fullback.

Clapp Names His Probable Starting Squad

Has Fairly Heavy Team But One Which Lacks Experience

LAWRENCE college football squad tonight will take a short, easy workout at George A. Whitling field and then prepare for the invasion of Marquette stadium tomorrow afternoon for the first game of the 1932 season.

Picking Marquette for the opening game just nine days after the opening of the practice season probably isn't the best way to start a schedule but the Vikes haven't much to say about it. The game originally scheduled for Saturday was with St. Norbert. Marquette was to be met Oct. 1. Then Wisconsin bid for a game with Marquette and—well you know how the schedule reads now.

Lawrence will be sending a squad of some 28 men to Milwaukee, most of them sophomores and inexperienced. The few veterans on the squad were far from outstanding last season but have shown improvement this fall. To expect the Vikes to win is out of the question. However, they should make a good showing in the opening half and will succumb only to the superior reserve strength of the Hilltops.

Clapp Not Satisfied

Coach Percy Clapp is hardly satisfied with results so far but he can't do much about it. His best kicker last year is at West Point with the Army plebes and he hasn't found anyone to take his place. He has several star performers slightly injured and spends his odd moments hoping nothing more will happen to them at Milwaukee. If they are forced from the game Coach-Clapp will be embarrassed.

The Viking mentor was rather reluctant about naming a starting lineup for Saturday but picked Edward Roeber, Antigo, for one end and Glenn Hessler or Ward Rosebush for the other. Roeber is a raring, tearing griddle but the other two wing men lack aggressiveness and power. Hessler played end against Marquette several years ago but Rosebush has seen comparatively little play.

John Vogel, a tall fellow weighing about 185 pounds is slated for one tackle and Ted Kramer, tipping the beam at 205 is booked at the other. Both are Milwaukee boys playing their first season as Lawrence regulars.

Gordon Simmonds, the biggest man on the squad, is slated to play one guard and Cliff Collins, Milwaukee is due at the other. Simmonds is from Wauwatosa. Both are sophomores.

At center there will be Ed Pfefferle, a short, chunky youth from Appleton, and James Vedder, tall, rangy, from Marshfield. Vedder was with the Vikes last season, but Pfefferle is a sophomore.

Backfield Only Fair

The backfield also leaves much to be desired. Chestly Gebhardt, Milladore, is due to start at one half with Capt. Merlin Feind, Jefferson at the other. Both were on the squad last year. Bobbie Roemer will try his luck at quarterback and call signals while George Walter, Milwaukee, will play fullback. Walters is the only man in the backfield who did not play regularly last season.

Coach Clapp has very little in the way of reserve strength but under the new substitution rule may be able to save his team. This year he is permitted to relieve a man in one quarter and return him to the game in the next. But, as he reads this paragraph, Clapp probably is wondering who the scribes figure he has to substitute.

Cub Infielders Hold Edge Over New York Yanks

Lacks Only Ability to Hit Ball to Far Corners Of Park

(The following story, comparing the infields of the Cubs and Yankees, is the second of a series on the rival pennant teams. Tomorrow, pitching.)

BY ALAN GOULD
Associated Press Sports Editor

NEW YORK.—(AP)—The infielders of the Chicago Cubs hold the edge over their Yankee rivals in most everything except the potent art of slugging baseballs out of the park.

Lou Gehrig, Tony Lazzeri and Joe Sewell, a newcomer to this feature of the business, all pack the kind of a batting punch that breaks up the old ball game.

Man for man, however, the Cub combination can point to more robust-looking batting marks for the 1932 season. The Bruin infielders, besides, can claim the distinction of being younger than their rivals, faster on the bases and quicker at the vital task of pulling double plays.

Watch Koenig, Lazzeri

Apart from the color added to the world series by the comebacks of Tony Lazzeri and Mark Anthony Koenig, one-time "keystone kids" of the Yankees now turning up as rivals, the two infields are closely matched in all-around ability.

Both Lazzeri and Koenig are expected to start the series, although they have been out of commission recently, the former at second base for the Yankees and the latter at shortstop for the Cubs. Bill Jurges is ready to step in if Koenig cannot go the series route. Otherwise the only question in either lineup is whether Frank Crosetti, the slender Yankee recruit, will hold down the shortstop post or yield to Lyn Lary or Dr. Eddie Farrell. Crosetti likely will start.

Whatever Manager Charley Grimm of the Cubs lacks in clout-in ability by comparison with lapping Lou Gehrig, the Yankee "iron man" first baseman, he makes up for in general steadiness. Grimm is a "money player," besides being a fine leader and banjo strummer. He has the artist's touch at first base. He was one of the few Cubs to play exceptional ball against the Athletics in the 1929 world series, batting close to .400.

Tony Steadles Yanks

Lazzeri's harder hitting ability and longer experience, providing

Elwood English is a better hitter than his average of around .270 for the season indicates. He is nine years younger and considerably faster than Joe Sewell, the veteran Yankee third sacker, out no steeper in the field nor as consistent at bat. Sewell is one of the toughest men in the game to batle at the plate. It's real baseball when Alabama Joe strikes out.

The Cubs have 22-year-old Stanlet Hack, as well as Jurges, for utility work around the infield premises.

The batting averages of the infielders up to date:

Chicago Cubs:

Descend Almost Half Mile Into Depths of Ocean

Hamilton, Bermuda. (P)—A new deep sea diving mark of nearly a half mile was added to the world's records today.

Dr. William Beebe, New York scientist, and Otis Barton, inventor of the "bathysphere," a newly devised diving apparatus, descended 2,200 feet below the surface of the Atlantic here yesterday, and broadcast their impressions over the radio from the depths.

The 2,200 feet was several hundred feet farther down than Dr. Beebe, noted as a deep sea explorer, had ever been. The "bathysphere" protected them from a pressure of 4,800 tons, enough to have flattened both of them if the apparatus had failed.

The experiment was made seven miles off Nonsuch Island, Bermuda, from the tug "Freedom," which rode in glorious sunshine atop a heavy ocean swell. The "bathysphere" was lowered over the side and Gloria Hollister, colleague of Dr. Beebe took the microphone until he himself could be cut in.

Dr. Beebe hoped to reach 3,000 feet but was prevented from doing so by leakage of the sea water in a stuffing box through which the electric light cables entered the diving apparatus.

The scientists said they had seen many ocean marvels of great scientific value at the newly explored depth.

President to Speak at Iowa State Fair Grounds

Chicago. (P)—President Herbert Hoover's opening campaign speech at Des Moines, Iowa, Oct. 4, will be given in the Iowa State Fair grounds amphitheater — the only place in the city large enough to accommodate the audience, his campaign managers, said they expected.

The average depth of the world's ocean is 12,000 feet.

Seek Focal Point
Of Parrot Fever
In United States

Import Quarantine Not Sufficient to Check
Psittacosis

Washington—(P)—Surgeon General Hugh S. Cumming, whose 1929 campaign against psittacosis resulted in clamping down a strict parrot import quarantine, today warned that this method can not be expected to check new appearances of "parrot fever."

He said cases now arising are being traced almost invariably to domestic love birds, believed by physicians the source of Mrs. William E. Borah's illness.

Last night Dr. Cumming dispatched to Boise via airmail a packet of "parrot fever" convalescent serum for treatment of the Idaho senator's wife.

"The only case arising from an imported bird since we started the quarantine was a customs officer at San Diego, who went out to a ship and brought a bird ashore," said Dr. Cumming. "All the rest arose from domestic birds, and all thus far have been from the west coast."

A study of psittacosis among domestic birds, made two months ago by Dr. H. E. Hasseltine of the Public Health service resulted in a recommendation for further intensive efforts to locate the focal point of the disease and work out a control system.

This will be done, the Public Health service indicated, as rapidly as limited appropriations allow.

Extensive investigations of the disease by the service led to the system of treating it with convalescent serum which now has been invoked for the treatment of Mrs. Borah. Dr. Charles Armstrong, author of the Public Health service treatise of the disease, who suffered a severe attack, was donor of blood from which this serum was obtained.

Public Health service records show 1932 psittacosis cases as follows:

California: February, 2 cases; March, 3; April, 3; May, 1; August, 2. New York City: February, 2; (both traced to west coast source); Oregon: January, 1 case.

Curtis Speaks in Kentucky Cities

Says in Tennessee Speech
"U. S. Will be First to Recover" From Slump

Chattanooga, Tenn.—(P)—Vice President Charles Curtis went to Southern Kentucky today to continue his campaign on behalf of the national Republican ticket.

He was to speak at Bowling

Green, Ky., in the afternoon and Hopkinsville at night.

Before a large crowd at Memorial auditorium here last night, the 72-year-old vice president, said he opposed cancellation of foreign war debts and declared the United States would be the "first large country to recover from the depression."

Curtis said there had been 17 depressions in the history of the United States "and each time we have come out stronger than before."

"We realize," he said, "that this is a world-wide depression and know that anything to improve conditions in other parts of the world will help our own country. We are, therefore, ready to help other countries in every way possible . . . but this does not mean a cancellation of our foreign debts."

Eleven of the United States' presidents were sworn in by Catholics.

Mt. Lassen volcano, in California, is the only one that has erupted in this country during this century.

JUST REVERSED

Toledo, Ohio—Most people take a honeymoon after they are married, but not so Mary McCan and Jack Scott, both 21, of Moosejaw, Sask. They recently motored here on Scott's bicycle, making more than 4000 miles on the trip. When they arrived, they announced their intentions of marrying, and proceeded on to Bowling Green to get the knot tied.

A foreign born person can become a member of the president's cabinet, providing he is a United States citizen.

Plan Model Gardening

In France This Year

Fontainebleau, France — (A) — A model school for gardening will be established here this year.

The organizers have acquired the historic chateau and grounds of "Pressoir-du-Rey."

In the vast and spacious park lying between the river Seine and the Forest of Fontainebleau, the student-gardeners will be taught the art of horticulture.

The students will be chiefly members of families of moderate means and preference will be given to children from large families. Favor will also be shown to candidates whose health is such that they must adopt open air careers.

Residents Again Quit

Bleak Scotland Isle

St. Kilda, Outer Hebrides — (A) — This lonely island, only seven miles in circumference, has been left to the sea birds again.

The inhabitants were evacuated several years ago, but a few returned this summer. When winter neared, they went back to Scotland and Neil Gillies, resident representative of the Earl of Dumfries, tarried only long enough to make the two habitable buildings safe from winter storms.

Bleak St. Kilda may be made a permanent bird refuge—thousands are here now.

Voecks Bros. Follow EMERSON'S ADVICE..

To Ralph Waldo Emerson is credited a saying that if you have something better than the rest, even if you be in a wilderness, "The world will make a beaten path to your door."

The ever increasing business that Voecks Bros. have enjoyed during the past 35 years is testimony to the fact that the people of this community have found that Voecks Bros. meats are far superior to those handled in the ordinary market — and in Emerson's words — Appleton people have beaten a path to Voecks door.

This weekend we have an exceptionally fine selection of — Domestic Mallard Ducks, Domesticated Ducks, Roasting Chickens, Yearling Chickens, Broilers, and Nest Squabs.

GRAPE JELLY WEEK!

Save 2½¢ PER GLASS on your Grape Jelly

The cheapest, most delicious grapes of the year are crowding the local markets. So read below how you can make jelly quicker and cheaper than ever this year . . . and then go to your grocer at once.

By Mrs. F. W. Bateman
ILLINOIS STATE JELLY CHAMPION

"I just hate to think of women still making jelly and jam the old-fashioned long-boil method. It's so costly. And so terribly tedious! "I make all my prize-winning jellies and jams with Certo. And I would never think of doing it any other way. "In the first place, Certo reduces boiling time for grape jelly, for instance, to ½ minute. And, of course, that is how it saves me so much money. For, with so little boiling needed, not one bit of the fruit juice has time to boil away. And as a result I usually get fully 5 more glasses from the same amount of fruit . . . and save as much as 2½¢ on every glass. "Of course, this ½ minute of hard boiling also saves me lots of time, too. Indeed it takes me only 11 or 12 minutes from the time I put my fruit and sugar mixture on until the time my finished jelly is cooling in the glasses. "And with Certo you get much better tasting jelly or jam, too. Certainly the 37 prizes the State Fair Judges

NONE OF MY GRAPE JUICE BOILS AWAY IN COSTLY STEAM!

Mrs. Bateman is only one of the many State Fair jelly and jam prize winners who use Certo in making all their blue ribbon jellies and jams. Indeed, Certo gives such amazing results that today nearly half the jelly makers in America are using it. Why not try it yourself? It will save you lots of money!

awarded my jellies and jams in the last two years testify to that!"

Why don't you do as Mrs. Bateman suggests and order a supply of Certo today—with your grapes and other jelly making supplies? You will be delighted at the money and time it will save you! And the extra flavor it will give your jellies and jams, too . . . if you will simply follow carefully the Certo recipes that come in the booklet attached to every Certo bottle. So don't delay. In a few days these marvelous grapes may be on the wane. Get your bottle of Certo from your grocer's today. It is a product of General Foods.

SYNOPSIS: Across the luxurious restaurant of the Hotel Lake Nan Weare sees Robert Leonard, the man she believes has twice tried to murder her husband, Jervis Weare. With him is Rosamund Carew, Jervis' former fiancée, whose recent attempt to secure his fortune for herself has failed. Rosamund sweeps dramatically up to Jervis' table.

Chapter 13

FASIONS CURBED

"I HAVEN'T congratulated you," said Rosamund.

"No," said Jervis pleasantly. "I hope you will."

"When you have introduced me to your wife," she turned her eyes on Nan. They were just like the sapphire of her ring - as darkly blue, as cold beneath the brilliance and the colour. She smiled with her lips, but the smile rose no higher.

Nan heard Jervis say her name. It was the first time since he had said, "I, Jervis, take thee, Nan."

"Nan, let me introduce my cousin, Rosamund Carew." She was aware of his smile. "You have heard of her."

"And I have never heard of you," said Rosamund very sweetly. "That doesn't seem fair - does it?"

Jervis watched them with interest. To Rosamund's perfect social technique Nan had only youth and inexperience to offer, yet, to his surprise, she suffered less than he could have supposed possible from the contact. She had the air of a well-bred child a little unsure of what it must do next. But the breeding was there; it kept her head up and her eyes steady and clear. Jervis wondered how old Page's typist came by it.

He thrust F. F. into the breach. "You've heard enough of Ferdinand Francis."

"Are you F. F.?" said Rosamund. Her voice, like all her movements, had a slow grace. It was rather a deep voice.

"I am," said Ferdinand - "and I can't begin to say how glad I am to meet you."

Rosamund smiled upon him and introduced Robert Leonard to him first, and then to Nan.

F. F. shook hands with enthusiasm. Nan acknowledged the privilege of Mr. Leonard's acquaintance with the slightest, gravest inclination of the head. No one could have told how terribly her heart was beating. To be so close to the man who had tried to kill Jervis, not once but twice!

He had a jutting brow with sparse fair eyebrows; the eyes were deeply and rather closely set, the nose insignificant, the chin jutting again and oddly cleft; a small colourless, mustache clipped away from the corners of the mouth showed thin, pale lips; his hair was smooth and mouse-coloured.

Rosamund turned from F. F. and spoke.

"Are you in town for long? How can you tear yourself from Weare in this weather?"

"I've been seeing my sister married," said Nan. "She sailed for Australia today."

"Then you'll be going back tomorrow, I suppose."

"Yes, tomorrow," he added, quite lightly and smoothly. "So I'm afraid we shan't meet again."

Rosamund Carew smiled and passed down the room, spoke for a moment to Janet Tetterley, smiled at Nonie Carter, touched Enid Mellicker, on the shoulder, and after a word or two, passed on and out of sight behind a golden pillar.

"Well!" said Mr. Francis. He put a wealth of expression into the word; his eyes darted questions. Like King David, he held his tongue, but it was pain and grief to him.

Jervis looked at him rather maliciously.

"I don't think we'll hurry," he said. "I think we'll dance. If F. F. makes a clean breast of all his villainies, he shall dance with Rosamund - and I'm sure you'd love a turn with Leonard."

Nan's face went blank; her color was gone.

She said, "Oh no - I'd rather not." Then, with a pathetic earnestness, "Oh, please don't make me."

"Then you'll have to put up with me - and I'm nothing like the performer that he is."

Ferdinand was an accomplished dancer; the new Mrs. Jervis Weare was an elusive feeling of being for once at the top of a form to which he had never previously aspired. He looked down at Nan's brown head. He could just see one of her ears. It was little and delicately shaped; the lobe showed pink between short waves of hair.

"I suppose you know how beautifully you dance. I wouldn't have dared ask you if I had known."

She looked up for a moment - one of those direct looks of hers. "I was a dancing partner at So-lano's for six months before I went to Mr. Page," she said.

"Did you like it?"

She could hear the frown in his voice.

"No." It was a very sober monosyllable to cover a good deal of shrinking distaste. After a very little pause she added, "I did like the dancing."

"Why did you do it?"

"I couldn't get anything else to do."

"Haven't you any people?"

"Only Cynthia - really."

He was down on that like a flash. "Who isn't real?"

"An aunt; I couldn't possibly ask her for anything."

"Why?"

She looked up again.

"She's that sort. She finished our education."

"And then?"

"She washed her hands of us. She washed them very thoroughly."

There were seats between the half pillars on two sides of the ballroom. They moved to the nearest and sat down. Jervis said, as if with an effort,

"I've been thinking things over. Would you object to coming down to Weare for a bit?"

"Why?"

Jervis' face changed suddenly. With the look of a teasing school-boy he said,

"You could see I didn't get run over again." Jervis looked up, pricked to a sudden wonder. He wanted her to come - she must come.

"Well?" he said.

"I'll come," said Nan, and relaxed with a sigh.

Another of Rosamund Carew's schemes comes to nothing in tomorrow's instalment.

'Trading Stamp' Idea

Adopted by Exposition

Chicago - (U-P) - The Century of Progress exposition has adopted the "trading stamp" idea in a glorified form as a means of advertising the 1933 world's fair here.

Eight hundred million watermarked "merchandise certificates" are to be printed and broadcast to merchants in denominations of 1, 5 and 25 cents. The merchants will issue them as premiums with sales, and they will be convertible into cash for paying admissions to the exposition, railroad and hotel fares, theater admissions, restaurant and allied items during the period from June 1 to December 5, 1933.

Chicago Merchandise Certificates, Inc., will issue the certificates under a contract with the exposition and through a trust agreement with a downtown Chicago bank.

PROMPTNESS REWARDED

London, Eng. - If you are one of those people who are tardy about everything you do observe what punctuality did for one English woman. Because she always had her breakfast ready at the time he asked, with never any delay, Edith Taylor was awarded $50 a year for each year or fraction thereof spent in his services, by her employer, John James, of Stratford-on-Avon.

Can Europe Come Back?

This is the sixth of a series of articles on the possibilities of economic recovery in Europe written by H. R. Knickerbocker, noted newspaper writer and investigator, who visited all the countries of Europe in the preparation of the series. The seventh article will appear on Saturday.

parts of the continent? The answers to these questions do much to clear the way for an answer to the final question: "How can the trade and currency, restrictions that are now blocking recovery be lifted?"

Most important factor in the Danubian situation is the one already mentioned; namely, that these countries which combined would make a great Power are separately more dependent than any of the great Powers on their foreign trade.

Another important factor is the fact that the states of Hungary, Rumania and Yugoslavia chiefly produce the very commodities that have crashed furthest in price. Their cereals, animal products, petroleum are worth half their 1929 value.

Heavy Borrowing Cited. Third, the Danubian states have borrowed more heavily in proportion to their resources than any other states in Europe. Their combined debt is a little over four billion dollars. This does not include several hundreds of millions of dollars of private bond loans from abroad and does not include their short-term credits. Many of these loans were made during the prosperous days of 1926-29, at rates of interest factually running as high as 10 per cent and averaging perhaps 8 per cent, and even the Governmental debt to abroad pays 5 to 6 per cent. This permits an estimate that the total drain on the seven countries for debt service is at least $300,000,000.

Fourth, all these states are inflation-conscious. They have either themselves experienced the catastrophic effects of an unlimited inflation or have witnessed it next door. They know that, next to war, it is the most painful calamity that can be inflicted upon a modern society.

Lastly, all these states are torn by two sets of political and racial antagonisms, their own and those of the great Powers. Not even the allied states, as those of the Little Entente, are genuinely friendly toward each other, and the nonallied states are at times fiercely hostile. None will admit being "Balkan." In Vienna they say, "Going down to the Balkans? Going to visit Hungary?" In Budapest they say, "When you get to Belgrade and see the Balkans..." In Sofia they remark, "It's so different in the Balkans down in Rumania." In Bucharest they simply bar the word Balkans from polite conversation. A large degree of contempt colors each nation's reference to the others.

Influenced by Powers. These individual antipathies, based on a thousand years of fighting, are influence upon them of the great Powers. The efforts of France are unremitting to extend the control she exercises over Czechoslovakia, Yugoslavia and Rumania to as many of the other states as will submit to her. Her hope of building a Mittel-Europa with her old allies, Austria and Hungary, Italy has obtained dominant power over Albania, considerable influence in Hungary and waves between a strictly Italian policy and one of co-operation with Germany against France. In Danubia England oversees the entire constellation and for the sake of her Continental trade and banking seeks to be an arbitrating, conciliating, stabilizing force.

Out of this powder keg of nationalism came the detonation that started the Great War. Out of it came the current credit crisis, for the initial signal that started the panic was not the breakdown of the Austrian Credit-Anstalt but the Abortive Austro-German customs union. Yet today it is possible to establish that out of Danubia may come recovery.

There is no hope, nor is it even necessary, for the Danubian states to give up their ingrained racial antagonism. The Austrians will still consider themselves the cultural superiors of all their neighbors; the Hungarians will still pride themselves on being descendants of Genghis Khan, greatest conqueror in history; the Serbs will still feel capable of whipping the entire lot; the Bulgars will prove their title to most ancient inhabitants; the Rumanians will continue to declare themselves the legitimate heirs of the Caesars and the Greeks will always be proud of being Greeks.

War Danger Slight. Today, however, despite the persistence of these patriotic feelings, and even despite the trade conflicts that have ensued as a result of the crisis, there is less danger of war in Danubia than at any time perhaps since 1918. The nations are too busy with economic troubles to think of war. It has been many months since border affairs disturbed the Balkan chancelleries. The territorial aspirations of the defeated nations have been almost forgotten in their aspiration to recover their economic balance. Even in Hungary the national slogan, "No, no, never!" referring to their boundaries, is heard less frequently than ever. All this is an immense asset on the balance sheet not only politically, but economically.

It only remains for the great Powers to be persuaded that it is in their own imperative interest that they agree upon a program of recovery for Danubia. Today in the financial circles of Rome, Berlin, London and even Paris the necessity of such a program is not only recognized, but an outline of possible measures has begun to take form.

Possible Program Sketched. Conversation with a number of these authorities permits sketching of a possible program that might mean economic recovery of Central and Southeastern Europe even before world recovery. The remedy they propose is based upon the following analysis:

Because they borrow so much, the Danubian states were subject upon the outbreak of the credit panic to a disproportionately heavy cence, or to fundamental reform and possible speedy recovery.

Reversal Studied. To remedy these conditions measures now being considered in half a dozen European capitals are those designed to reverse the process that brought the conditions about. First and most essential measure is to lift the currency blockade, remove all restrictions on free exchange.

But this can only be done if the inflation conscious countries are given some protection against the uncontrollable depreciation of their currency. This protection can only be given if the treasuries of the Danubian states are provided with sufficient funds to protect their currencies during the period of recovery. Long term loans are not necessary, but a considerable sum of short or middle term money is necessary.

Necessary also in the opinion of Europe's best students of Danubia, is a scaling down of the debt service owed by these countries abroad. Why, the debtors ask, should loans still be paid for in 1929 prices when commodities have sunk to 40 or 50 per cent of 1929 prices? Why should capital continue to be paid for at the 6 per cent interest rate of three years ago when the material goods upon the sale of which the interest rate is to be paid have sunk in price by half and through no fault of the debtor? In other words Danubia asks, "Why should we pay today 100 bushels of wheat a year for the use of a loan that we contracted to pay for in 1929 at fifty bushels of wheat a year?"

Two Ways Out Seen. Not only the small debtor nations, and not only the Danubian states, reflect that private debtors today have two ways out of such a situation: either to achieve an agreement with their creditors to scale down the interest rate or to go bankrupt and pay nothing. The parallel is tempting, and every consideration displays the advantage to be gained by the creditor in agreeing to debt reduction. For if a railroad passes into the hands of receivers the holders of first lien bonds at any rate may receive satisfaction. But if a nation goes bankrupt, finds itself physically unable to meet its obligations abroad, there is no receiver for it and the holders of its bonds may lose their entire investment.

It is certain therefore that the plan for Danubian reconstruction will include scaling down of the present debts and a new loan to permit the readjustment of Danubian currencies. The probability is also that it will include League control over the use to which the loan will be put. These uses are defined in the results hoped for from this plan.

Were an agreement reached for reduction of debt service, and were the Danubian countries to be given by the Powers a short term loan estimate at $100,000,000 to $200,000,000 renewable if necessary, and to be disposed of under the control of League commissioners, the following are the steps and results that are anticipated by the proponents of the plan:

Currency Freedom Sought. At once, upon receiving the loan, the Danubian countries would lift all restrictions on the free exchange of their currency. At the same time they would abandon their present artificial, police-supported currency level, let their currencies drop to an agreed level calculated on the basis of the fall in commodity prices, and go on gold again, that is, stabilize at a point where their currencies equilibrated with prices. This point, it is estimated, would be from 30 to 40 per cent below the old par.

Going on gold again at a new, natural level should, in the opinion of the backers of this program, automatically lower export prices in terms of outside currencies and thus promote sales abroad, and at the same time raise export prices a bit in terms of Danubian currencies and thus give the exporter a larger profit in his national money. It should not merely stimulate exports but check imports and help establish an export surplus indispensable to any foreign country that expects to liquidate its obligations.

At the same time these measures should automatically decrease wages and salaries help to balance the budget and diminish the internal debt structure to an extent about equal to the depreciation of the currency, provided the Governments were strong enough to prevent any immediate move to raise wages to meet the currency drop.

Commissioner Useful. At this point the real value of the League commissioner would become apparent. He would be on hand not so much to control and coerce the Government, as to support the Government against the political pressure of its constituents. League experience has been that debtor governments generally want to be quite loyal in fulfilling the terms of a loan. But governments are under constant pressure from their bureaucracy and from their peoples, and it is against this pressure that the League commissioner is most useful.

Comes a clamor for wage increase, a protest against civil service cuts, the Government regretfully gestures at the League commissioner: "It's his fault."

The commissioner can stand it. He is not dependent on votes. The situation in most Danube states today is such that further cuts in Government expenditure are essential to balance the budget, but are practically impossible because politically impossible, with a League commissioner, even a 30 to 50 per cent cut such as that contemplated in the currency depreciation would be feasible.

In this program, which may soon be officially sponsored before the World Economic Conference, there are manifold discoverable hazards. None is as serious as the hazards that face the creditor patrons if nothing is done to interrupt the vicious circle of Danubian economic strangulation.

The promises in the program are greater than the possible hazards. If at the same time that these measures were put through, it were made another condition that the Danubian countries should negotiate among themselves the sort of individual, bilateral trade agreements President Masaryk indicated as acceptable, and if these bilateral, not general agreements, were like those extended to at least Germany and Italy, the results of this program might be as encouraging as its creators hope.

Might Spur Wide Recovery. It is conceivable that out of it might come a re-creation of Danubian trade. It is virtually certain that it would permit the payment of the scaled down service of Danubian's foreign debt. It is probable that it would permit the comparatively speedy repayment of the contemplated stabilization loan. It is possible that out of the restoration of Danubian economy might come a stimulus to European and to world recovery that would be decisive.

The program outlined involves the risk of perhaps $200,000,000, the amount of the loan for re-leveling the Danube currencies. But France, England, Italy, Germany, Poland and Switzerland are today losing more than $200,000,000 a year of exports to the Danube countries. In 1929 these six countries sold $431,000,000 worth of goods to Austria, Hungary, Rumania, Czechoslovakia and Yugoslavia; today they are selling at the rate of less than $200,000,000 a year. Furthermore, if some measures are not taken, many, if not all, of the Danubian countries will inevitably declare national bankruptcy and their creditors will get nothing.

Chief uncertainty in the outlook of Danubia for this sort of help is the attitude of France. Directly, France is less interested economically in Danubia as a whole than any of the European Powers. Indirectly, ultimately, France is as interested in Danubia's fate as in the fate of Europe, bound together as it is by the steel bands of economic interdependence. But that is not all, of the Danubian countries, the lowest eight of the Continent's four hundred million Europeans.

Cheapness in shoes makes "one time customers." Quality makes "lifetime friends,"... the kind of customers who return for shoes year in and year out. Cheap shoes are more costly in the end because the prices are too low to include substantial service, fine fitting qualities, and value. Buying shoes by price alone is never true economy.

The Wolf Shoe Co. . . . one of Appleton's largest shoe stores . . . will not be undersold. We can sell lower priced shoes than any of our competitors . . . but, we strongly advise against too low prices. The difference in price between Wolf's quality shoes and ordinary cheap shoddy footwear is too small and the difference in appearance and comfort of the shoes is too great.

During this week the Chiropractic profession of Wisconsin set aside the Chiropractic Health Week. During this week the Chiropractors giving their service for the examination of children and adults. There were seventy-seven cases up

It is estimated by the United States public health service that there are almost one hundred and twenty million cases of disabling illness in the United States each year.
If this health problem, then, becomes a national problem involving a saving of many millions of dollars in costs, can you find a way to maintain higher rate of efficiency thru sickness. Chiropractic is a method capable of restoring health to millions of cases where other methods have failed. Further, it is a method of preventing sickness.

maintaining a high resistance to disease. This is true because chiropractic deals with the cause of disease. It is the only health system which presents a complete and comprehensive explanation of this important subject.

The Chiropractor holds that function of the activities result from vital energy supplied to all structures of the body thru the nervous system. He holds that when interference occurs in the path of one or more nerves, vital energy cannot be properly delivered and abnormal function develops. To stimulate with an organ which is not receiving its normal nerve supply is comparable to whipping a tire to use to action.

When the Chiropractor recognizes that the cause of disease lies within the nervous system, he seeks to discover where nerve interference is present and having discovered it proceeds to correct it. His results are remarkable because he looks upon case purely as an effect. This

Signal Drills Due Today for School Eleven

Team Opens Conference Season Tomorrow Against Shawano

Kaukauna—Coach Paul E. Little was to put his Kaukauna high school football squad through light signal drills this afternoon to complete the training schedule preliminary to the opening of the season tomorrow. The Indians presented a formidable attack as they set back the Oshkosh eleven. A variety of trick plays with triple passes composed the attack. Their long gains, however, were made with the use of baffling aerial offense. Most of the Shawano players were in the line and used their best to keep the Oshkosh eleven constantly in their own territory. The Indian line was not penetrated throughout the try, but most of the Oshkosh gains also were made via the aerial route.

While Shawano was winning Oshkosh at Oshkosh, Coach Little's gridders were trouncing the Chilton high school eleven at Chilton by a 24 to 0 score. The Littlemen showed plenty of ability and their running attack constantly filtered through the Chilton line for long gains. Coach Little was well pleased with the impressive showing of his eleven and is optimistic regarding Shawano's invasion.

All Players Used
Nothing in the way of a starting lineup could be determined from the appearance of the Littlemen at Chilton, as the entire set of 35 players was used. It was apparent from the Thursday sessions, however, that the following men probably would start Saturday's fracas: Ambrose Manuel, veteran of last year, center; Harvey Reichel and Clayton Fleming, guards; Block and Rademacher, tackles; and Trist and Vils, ends. In the backfield Schuler will probably start at quarterback, Kuchmeister and Sisco, halfbacks, and Van Dyke, full back. For Shawano Coach Gharrity will probably start the lineup which performed successfully at Oshkosh last week. Moore will start at right end; Peters, right tackle; Osborne, right guard; Gruenwald, center; Fossum, left guard; Otto, left tackle; Gueller, left end; Grignon, quarterback; Wolf, right halfback; Meifort, left halfback; and Koepper, full back. Grignon and Meifort were the outstanding men in the attack at Oshkosh last week.

Starting at 1:45 Sunday afternoon the participants will draw for partners in the mixed two-ball foursome tourney. The tournament will be known as a flag tournament and the committee has arranged for surprises at each of the greens. Several hundred persons are expected to take part in the event.

Put Jobless Men On City Projects

Sidewalks on Crooks-ave Expected to be Completed This Week

Kaukauna—Several unemployed men have been added to the south road crew this week to assist in a number of improvements, according to Charles Gilkey, south side road commissioner. The improvements include the construction of sidewalk on the east side of Crooks-ave from Seventh-st to Eighth-st, grading of six-tenths of a mile of County trunk line Q from Cleveland-ave to the city limits, and filling along the south side of Dodge-st.

The sidewalk on Crooks-ave will be completed this week, winding up the improvement of that street, which was paved with concrete last fall and completed last spring. On Tenth-st a crew of men has been cutting away a small grade between Main-ave and Crooks-ave and filling for a foundation for a sidewalk. County Trunk line Q was graded and widened several feet. The shoulder of the road also was improved to the city limits.

Filling along Dodge-st is being done to allow planting of trees on the shoulder of the road next spring. Ground for the filling is being taken from a slope on the west side of Boyd-ave. Trucks of the south road district were used to haul the ground.

Men who have been added to the crews were taken from the poor list. A number of unemployed taxpayers also were added to the crews. With the completion of the improvements these men will be laid off.
